The volume for 1893 contains the Principal Report of the Criminal Statistics Committee, and that for 1898 a Supplementary Report.

From 1805 to 1856 Tables of Trials at Assizes and Quarter Sessions were printed annually as Parliamentary Papers. From 1857 to 1892 the Criminal Statistics formed part of the annual volume of "Judicial Statistics."

TO

THE RIGHT HONOURABLE REGINALD McKENNA, M.P.,

HIS MAJESTY'S PRINCIPAL SECRETARY OF STATE FOR THE HOME DEPARTMENT.

SIR,

I HAVE the honour to submit Part I of the Judicial Statistics for the year 1910, containing the statistics relating to crime and criminal proceedings.

The Annual Tables are in the same form as those for the year 1909, with the following exceptions :—

(1.) Two new Tables have been added—one (No. XVI) containing particulars of the proceedings in the Juvenile Courts instituted under the Children Act of 1908, and the other (No. XLV) showing the number of children and young persons received in the Places of Detention established under the same Act.

(2.) The Table showing the number of crimes in each month of the year has been omitted. There are already ample statistics on this not very important point, and the annual collection of the figures involved a good deal of labour to the Police. The similar Table of receptions in prison in each month of the year has also been discontinued.

(3.) The Tables relating to Reformatory and Industrial Schools have been reduced by the omission of certain particulars which more properly appear in the report of the Inspector of Reformatory and Industrial Schools.

(4.) The Tables from No. XVI onwards have been re-numbered in consequence of the changes mentioned above, and the opportunity has been taken of making some minor improvements in the Prison Returns.

No change has been made in the form of the Comparative Tables.

The Introduction, which summarizes the principal figures for the year and compares them with those of recent years, has been prepared by Mr. W. J. Farrant, Superintendent of the Statistical Branch.

I am,

Sir,

Your obedient Servant,

EDWARD TROUP.

INTRODUCTION

CRIMINAL STATISTICS

For the Year 1910.

INTRODUCTION TO THE CRIMINAL STATISTICS FOR THE YEAR 1910.

Statistics of Criminal Courts.

The first and most important tables in the Criminal Statistics are those which deal with the numbers of offenders tried by the criminal courts, and with the number and nature of the offences of which they are accused.

Assizes and Quarter Sessions.—The number of persons who were brought up for trial before the superior criminal courts during the year 1910 was a trifle smaller than in the preceding year and less than in 1908, but with these exceptions the total for 1910 was greater than in any previous year since 1888. The following statement shows the totals for the last eleven years and the distribution of business between Assizes and Quarter Sessions.

Year.	Assizes.	Quarter Sessions.	Total.*
1900	3,094	7,052	10,149
1901	3,348	7,445	10,797
1902	3,620	7,769	11,392
1903	3,583	8,295	11,882
1904	3,559	8,597	12,158
Annual Average 1900–4	3,441	7,832	11,276
1905	3,682	8,640	12,325
1906	3,835	8,921	12,757
1907	3,769	8,828	12,599
1908	4,168	9,954	14,122
1909	3,917	9,832	13,749
Annual Average 1905–9	3,874	9,235	13,110
1910	4,053	9,626	13,680

Nearly all the offences against the person, except the relatively less serious cases of malicious wounding, assault, cruelty to children, and indecent assault, are dealt with at Assizes. On the other hand, the bulk of the offences against property, including most of the offences committed by habitual criminals, come before Courts of Quarter Sessions the chief exceptions being cases of arson, forgery, coining, perjury, libel, and complicated cases of commercial fraud.

The statistics of persons tried for indictable offences are generally accepted as the best index to the fluctuations of crime. But the persons tried at Assizes and Quarter Sessions comprise only about one-fifth of the total, the remainder of the accused persons being dealt with by Courts of Summary Jurisdiction. In considering the state of crime it is therefore necessary to add together the figures for both superior and inferior courts, and it will be convenient to refer briefly to the combined figures here.

State of Crime in 1910.—The total number of persons tried* for indictable offences in 1910 was 66,389. The corresponding figures for 1909 and 1908 were 67,150 and 68,116 respectively, but although the total for 1910 shows a diminution as compared with 1909 and 1908, it is higher than in any previous year for which figures are available. Prior to 1908, the total had exceeded 63,000 in only one year, viz., 63,268 in 1882.

In the following statement the quinquennial averages for the half-century from 1857 to 1906 are compared with the figures for each of the last four years.

Years.	Number of Persons tried.	Proportions per 100,000 Population.	Years.	Number of Persons tried.	Proportions per 100,000 Population.
1857–61	53,158	270	1892–6	54,689	182
1862–6	59,715	286	1897–1901	52,567	165
1867–71	58,480	263	1902–6	59,203	176
1872–6	52,148	220	1907	61,381	177
1877–81	57,234	226	1908	68,116	194
1882–6	59,259	220	1909	67,150	190
1887–91	56,280	198	1910	66,389	185

These figures clearly show that, in spite of the considerable reduction as compared with the two preceding years, the amount of crime in 1910 remained much above the average of recent years, both absolutely and in proportion to population.

Less value, as an index to the progress of crime, is attached to the statistics of crimes known to the police, but they are in close agreement with, and substantially confirm the conclusions to be drawn from, the statistics of persons tried. This is shown by the following statement :—

Years.	Crimes known to the Police.		Years.	Crimes known to the Police.
	Average Annual Number.	Proportions per 100,000 Population.		Average Annual Number.	Proportions per 100,000 Population.

1862–6	91,816	440	1897–1901	79,250	249
1867–71	94,072	423	1902–6	89,732	267
1872–6	83,644	353	1907	98,822	285

1887–91	84,382	297	1910	103,132	288

Like the figures of persons for trial, the number of crimes reported in 1910, though less than in 1909 and

* The totals include a few cases tried in the King's Bench Division of the High Court of Justice and one trial of a peer in the House of Lords.

* The figures include also a small number of persons brought up for trial but not actually tried (see page 11).

1908, is higher than any previously recorded figures. From 1857 to 1907 there were only three years in which the total exceeded 100,000 (viz., 1868, 101,369, 1869, 100,400, and 1882, 100,258), and the total for 1910 is 36 per cent. higher than the minimum total recorded in any year (76,025 in 1899).

It is not proposed to quote in this connection the figures of persons convicted or of persons imprisoned. Owing to changes in procedure and practice, e.g., the provisions of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1907, and of the Children Act, 1908, which, in suitable cases, enable a conviction to be avoided in dealing with persons against whom offences are proved, no trustworthy conclusions as to the progress of crime can now be based upon those statistics. The figures of imprisonments are still further removed from direct relation with the amount of crime committed by the fact that only about one-sixth of the convicted persons sent to prison were accused of crimes, i.e., indictable offences. About one-third of the remainder are imprisoned in default of payment of fines imposed for drunkenness, the balance being chiefly made up of persons convicted of assaults, disorderly behaviour, vagrancy, and similar minor offences.

These opinions are confirmed by the following observations by a London magistrate of great experience:—

> "I think that some caution should be exercised before general inferences are adopted from statistics which in themselves are no doubt correct. For instance, before it is assumed that crime is on the decrease the new methods of dealing with crime should be considered. At the present day in very many cases the prosecutor, the witnesses, the police, and the magistrate are all trying their best to shield the culprit; so that a forgery is condoned into a false pretence and a burglary into a petty larceny, while an ordinary theft or felonious assault is regarded as an escapade. I am not now arguing whether this is right or wrong; but only asking that some degree of caution may be observed. I have had a return made of the charges in my Court, and it shows no decrease in criminal offences, but rather an increase. My own experience leads me to think that while crimes of violence are on the decrease, crimes of fraud are on the increase. My figures, I may state, do not include children under 16, so that I have understated the effect of my research."
> "A comparison of the number of 'convictions' may also lead to some error; for yearly more and more offenders are only bound over or put on probation, and there is no 'conviction', although the crime is proved."*

Reverting to the figures for persons tried for indictable offences, both on indictment and summarily, offences against the person increased from 2,653 in 1909 to 2,751, the average number for the five years 1905 to 1909 being 2,689. Offences of violence fell from 1,495 to 1,316, but sexual offences rose from 1,158 to 1,435, an increase of 277 or 24 per cent. This apparent increase of offences was, however, due, in part at least, to changes in criminal law and procedure.

In the first place, 51 persons were tried in 1910 as against 21 in 1909 for the offence of incest, created by a statute passed in 1908, and, secondly, in consequence of the extension, by section 128 of the Children Act, 1908, of the powers of justices for dealing summarily with cases of indecent assault, the figures under that heading include a number of cases which would formerly have been reduced to charges of common assault in order to enable the justices to dispose of the cases summarily. In consequence of this change, the number of persons returned as tried summarily for indecent assaults rose from 37 in 1908 to 232 in 1909 and to 415 in 1910.

* "The Times" 28th November, 1911.

Burglary and housebreaking, and robbery, remained stationary, but larcenies and frauds diminished by about a thousand, thus accounting for the whole variation in the total for all offences.

The only other change in the figures calling for notice is the increase in the number of persons tried for uttering counterfeit coins—171 as against 121 in 1909. In the interval between 1893 and 1910 the total has exceeded 100 in only four years, the highest figures being 121 in 1905 and 1909.

In recent years it has been the practice to extend the inquiry into the progress of crime to such of the non-indictable offences as are criminal in character. In the Introduction for 1898 (Criminal Statistics, 1898, page 22), the following non-indictable offences were selected as being of a criminal nature, viz.: (1) assaults, including aggravated assaults, assaults on constables, and common assaults; (2) brothel keeping; (3) cruelty to children; (4) malicious damage to animals, fences, trees, shrubs, fruits, &c.; (5) unlawful pledging; (6) unlawful possession; (7) stealing workhouse clothes; (8) offences under the Prevention of Crimes Acts; (9) stealing animals, fences, trees, shrubs, fruit, &c., and receiving such things when stolen; and (10) certain offences under the Vagrancy Acts, viz., frequenting, being found in inclosed premises, and being found in possession of picklocks.*

The number of these offences for each of the last ten years, together with the figures for indictable offences, and the totals for both classes of offences, were :—

Year.	Indictable Offences.	Non-indictable Offences of a Criminal Character.	Total of both classes.
1900	53,628	98,883	152,511
1901	55,453	98,520	153,973
1902	57,068	95,333	152,401
1903	58,444	89,451	147,895
1904	59,960	89,254	149,214
Annual Average 1900–4	56,911	94,288	151,199
1905	61,463	85,139	146,602
1906	59,079	82,264	141,343
1907	61,381	79,862	141,243
1908	68,116	80,132	148,248
1909	67,150	74,399	141,549
Annual Average 1905–9	63,438	80,359	143,797
1910	66,389	73,105	139,494

It will be seen that the increase of the figures for crimes which took place three years ago and is still maintained did not extend to the less serious offences of a criminal nature which are classed as non-indictable offences. The continuous decrease in the latter offences occurs under the heading of assaults, the quinquennial averages for common assault for 1896–1900, 1901–5, and 1906–10 being 56,982, 45,963, and 37,218 respectively.

* The remaining non-indictable offences, though technically criminal, cannot be regarded as criminal in the most serious sense of the term. They consist mainly of contraventions of municipal regulations established in the interests of public safety, health, and comfort, and not involving violence, or cruelty, or gross dishonesty.

To return to the proceedings in Courts of Assize and Quarter Sessions—the results of the cases may be briefly stated as follows :—of the 13,680 persons who were brought up for trial, 248 were not actually tried, in 24 cases the prosecution was not proceeded with, in 199 the Grand Jury returned "no bill" and the proceedings thereupon came to an end, and in 25 cases the jury found that the accused was insane and unfit to plead. There remain 13,432 persons actually tried, of whom 2,043 were acquitted, and 11,337 convicted, while 52 persons were found "guilty but insane" and were ordered to be detained during His Majesty's pleasure. Forty-seven of the persons found "guilty but insane" were charged with offences against the person, including 30 persons indicted for murder.

Excluding persons who were not actually tried, the proportion of convictions was 84·40 per cent. Formerly the proportion tended to increase slightly, but is now nearly stationary. The proportions for the 11 years ending with 1910 were as follows :—

1900	...	80·97 per cent.	1906	...	83·51 per cent.
1901	...	82·36 „	1907	...	84·51 „

The Prevention of Crime Act, 1908, provides that persons who have been thrice convicted of crime and who are persistently leading a dishonest or criminal life, may, upon being sentenced to penal servitude for a fresh offence, be further sentenced to preventive detention for a period not exceeding 10 years nor less than five years : the term of preventive detention to take effect after the determination of the sentence of penal servitude. Convicts undergoing preventive detention will be confined in prisons set apart for the purpose with some amelioration of the usual prison treatment.

One hundred and seventy-eight persons were sentenced to preventive detention. The offences, on conviction of which this sentence was passed, included felonious wounding (2), housebreaking and similar offences (79), larceny, fraud, and receiving (76), arson (3), and coining and uttering counterfeit coin (11).

Of the 11,337 persons convicted, 7,997 had previous convictions recorded against them. During the past 10 years the proportion of convicted persons recognized as having previous convictions has risen from 60 per cent. to 70 per cent. This change is probably the combined results of improved methods of identification on the one hand, and, on the other, of the increasing extent to which youthful and first offenders are dealt with summarily. The percentages for the past 10 years are as follows :—

1901	...	60·53	1906	...	67·84
1902	...	63·12	1907	...	68·37
1903	...	63·06	1908	...	70·71

Court of Criminal Appeal.—There was 584 applications for leave to appeal: leave was granted in 140 cases. In addition there were 87 appeals on grounds involving questions of law, eight with the certificate of the Judge at Trial, and 27 appeals against sentences of preventive detention, making a total of 262 appeals for hearing.

In 171 cases the conviction or sentence was affirmed, in 83 cases the conviction or sentence was quashed (conviction for another offence, or some other sentence, being substituted in 44 cases), and eight appeals were abandoned.

In the following statement the figures for the three years during which the court has been in operation are compared :—

Year.	Applications for Leave to Appeal.		Appeals.

	Number of Applications.	Applications granted.	Total Number.	Appeal Abandoned.	Appeal dismissed.	Conviction or sentence altered.	Appellant discharged.
1908 (nine months).	332	79	108	5	68	17	18
1909	550	123	194	2	127	39	26
1910	584	140	262	8	171	44	39

Only about 6 per cent. of the persons convicted on indictment in 1910 sought to have their cases reviewed, and only one in 18 of the persons who invoked the intervention of the Court of Criminal Appeal obtained immediate discharge.

Out of the twenty eight persons sentenced to death, four petitioned for leave to appeal, and ten appealed on grounds involving questions of law : all were unsuccessful.

Courts of Summary Jurisdiction.—The number of persons tried by Courts of Summary Jurisdiction in 1910 was 684,625, of whom 52,709 were charged with indictable offences and 631,916 with non-indictable offences. As compared with the previous year both indictable offences and non-indictable offences have diminished. The figures for the past eleven years are as follows :—

Year.	Indictable Offences tried summarily.	Non-Indictable Offences.	Total.
1900	43,479	717,225	760,704
1901	44,656	736,966	781,622

As previously mentioned, only about one-fifth of the persons charged with indictable offences come before Assizes and Quarter Sessions, the remaining four-fifths being tried before Courts of Summary Jurisdiction.

The decrease of 27,190 in the number of non-indictable offences falls chiefly under a very few heads. Offences against the Education Acts have fallen from 38,951 to 36,823, Drunkenness from 182,416 to 175,449, offences against Police Regulations from 103,628 to 94,370, Misbehaviour by Paupers from 5,892 to 4,403, and "Sleeping Out" from 13,136 to 10,568. On the other hand, prosecutions for offences against the Revenue Laws rose from 17,848 to 21,833, Begging from 32,272 to 33,316, and "Gaming" from 22,685 to 24,197.

As above stated, the total number of persons dealt with by Courts of Summary Jurisdiction for all offences, indictable and non-indictable was 684,625, of whom 82,588 were discharged, 76,088 were dealt with without conviction, notwithstanding that the charge was proved, and 525,949 were convicted.

The 76,088 cases where the charges were proved but in which orders were made without conviction, consisted of 50,104 cases in which the charge was dismissed, 13,631 in which recognizances were ordered with or without sureties, under section 1 of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1907, 9,623 cases in which, in addition, probation orders were made under section 2 of the same Act, 2,688 in which children under 14 were committed to industrial schools, and 42 in which children were committed to the custody of relatives, &c.

The 525,949 persons convicted were dealt with as follows:—

Sentenced to:—
Imprisonment	77,749
Detention in Place of Detention... ...	39
Detention in Inebriate Reformatory ...	283
Detention in Reformatory School ...	1,210
Receive a Whipping	1,617
Pay a Fine (about 85,000 went to prison in default of payment of fines) ...	439,938
Ordered to enter into Recognizances ...	3,090
Otherwise disposed of	2,023

As regards proceedings not strictly criminal in character, Courts of Summary Jurisdiction made 14,963 orders for sureties to keep the peace or to be of good behaviour, 6,717 orders for the maintenance of illegitimate children, 6,723 orders for the maintenance of wives, 2,830 orders for the maintenance of children in reformatory and industrial schools, &c., and 3,444 orders under the Poor Law Acts for the maintenance of families, relatives, &c. Orders were made for the payment of wages in 2,995 cases, for dealing with nuisances under the Public Health Acts in 2,139 cases, and for possession of small tenements in 16,445 cases.

The number of appeals against convictions by Courts of Summary Jurisdiction was 129. No less than 32 appeals, about one-fourth of the total, were in relation to offences against the law as to intoxicating liquors, including 11 appeals against convictions for allowing drunkenness on licensed premises. In 82 cases the conviction was affirmed (with modification of sentence in 23 cases); in 41 cases the sentence was quashed, and in the remaining six cases the appeal was abandoned.

Juvenile Offenders.—A new table, No. XVI, which shows the number and offences of youthful offenders dealt with in Juvenile Courts, and the manner in which they were disposed of, furnishes for the first time the means of knowing how many youthful offenders are brought before the criminal courts.

Section 111 of the Children Act, 1908, directs that a Court of Summary Jurisdiction, when hearing a charge against a child or young person (i.e., persons aged under 14 years and aged 14 to 16 years respectively) shall take the case in a "Juvenile Court," i.e., either in a different building or room from that in which the Court ordinarily sits, or on a different day or at a different time from the ordinary sittings of the Court. The general public are excluded from a Juvenile Court.

The total number of persons brought before Juvenile Courts in 1910 was 33,598, viz., 16,416 children, 15,051 young persons, and 2,131 persons aged above 16. Deducting the latter persons and adding 537 children and 2,083 young persons who were dealt with by ordinary Courts of Summary Jurisdiction, either because they were charged jointly with adults or because they were supposed to be above 16, we get a total of 34,087 juvenile offenders (16,953 children and 17,134 young persons). This total is less than 5 per cent. of the whole number of persons proceeded against for criminal offences. The total of 34,087 closely approximates to the actual total of Table XVI, and the table may be regarded as a sufficiently accurate record of proceedings against juvenile offenders.

Table XVI confirms the generally received opinion that juvenile delinquency is mainly confined to the male sex. The 33,598 persons brought before juvenile courts included only 1,899 females, or less than 6 per cent. Among persons dealt with by ordinary courts of summary jurisdiction the proportion of females is nearly 16 per cent., and even if the offences of drunkenness and prostitution (which account for 48,302 or 44 per cent. of the 109,546 adult female defendants) are excluded, the proportion of females among persons charged with other offences is still above 12 per cent.

Nearly all the offences committed by juvenile offenders fall under a few headings. As might be expected the offences consist chiefly of petty thefts, acts of mischief, disorderly behaviour, vagrancy (begging, &c.), and gaming in public places. The principal figures are—

Larceny, fraud, and receiving ...	11,072
Other indictable offences	1,203
Cruelty to animals	209
Education Acts offences	459
Obstruction, &c., of highways ...	2,879
Employment of Children Act offences	664
Malicious damage	4,315
Offences against Police Regulations	6,289
Offences in relation to Railways (? loitering in railway stations).	482
Stealing fruit, plants, &c.	1,446
Begging and sleeping out	985
Gaming, &c.	2,264

which make up no less than 32,267 out of the total of 33,598 juvenile offenders proceeded against. The small number of prosecutions under the headings of "Fishery Laws, Offences against" (17), "Poaching" (13) and "Offences against the Wild Birds Protection Acts" (42), is remarkable.

There is a marked discrimination in favour of the defendant in juvenile cases, as compared with cases of adult offenders. Of the 33,598 persons brought before Juvenile Courts, 5,328 (or 16 per cent.) were acquitted, orders without conviction were made against 15,135 persons (or 45 per cent.) and only 13,078 persons (or 39 per cent.) were convicted. The corresponding figures for ordinary courts of summary jurisdiction were:—total number of defendants 651,027, acquitted 77,260 or 12 per cent., orders without conviction 60,953 or 9 per cent., and convicted 512,871 or 79 per cent.

Of the 15,135 youthful defendants who were found culpable but were not "convicted," 7,912 were dismissed (in some cases being ordered to pay damages or costs),

2,576 were ordered to enter into recognizances, 3,568 were placed under the supervision of probation officers, 1,044 were sent to industrial schools, and 35 were placed in the care of relatives, &c.

Only 90 of the 13,078 juvenile offenders who were convicted were sentenced to imprisonment,* and only 35 to confinement in places of detention : 1,143 were committed to reformatory schools, 1,562 males charged with indictable offences were ordered to be whipped and 10,124 (or 77 per cent. of the number convicted), were sentenced to pay fines. In 1,327 cases the fine was ordered to be paid by the parent or guardian of the defendant.

The contrast between the small number of juvenile offenders who were sentenced to imprisonment and the figures for juvenile prisoners half a century ago is striking. In 1856, the year in which the Judicial Statistics were established, the numbers of juvenile offenders received into prison were :—

Ages.	Males.	Females.	Total.
Under 12 years of age ...	1,674	316	1,990
12 to 16	10,134	1,857	11,991
Total	11,808	2,173	13,981

In 1910, on the other hand, no children under 14 were inmates of prisons and only 51 young persons (48 male and 3 female) between the ages of 14 and 16 years were received in prison upon conviction.

Probation Orders.—During the year 1910, probation orders were made in respect of 593 persons convicted on indictment, 6,866 persons tried summarily for indictable offences, and 2,758 persons charged with non-indictable offences, the total number being 10,217.

The sexes and ages of the offenders put on probation were :—

Age.	Number.
	Total.	Males.	Females.
Under 12 years	724	672	52
12 to 14 „	1,137	995	142
14 „ 16 „	1,868	1,627	241
16 „ 21 „	3,415	2,773	642
Above 21	3,073	1,906	1,167

The numbers of orders made for placing persons under the supervision of probation officers during the three years the Probation of Offenders Act, 1907, has been in operation, were as follows :—

Only 584, or less than 6 per cent., of the persons against whom Probation Orders were made were called up for sentence during the year. Of this number 97 were discharged, 185 were dealt with for fresh offences, and 302 were sentenced (including 184 sentenced to imprisonment) or otherwise disposed of in connection with their original offence.

* Children under 14 may not be sentenced to imprisonment nor committed to prison in default of payment of a fine, damages, or costs. Nor may young persons aged 14 to 16 years be so dealt with, unless the court certifies that the young person is of so unruly a character that he cannot be detained in a place of detention, or that he is of so depraved a character that he is not a fit person to be so detained (Children Act, 1908, sec. 102).

Extradition and Fugitive Offenders.

During the year 1910 there were 66 applications for extradition received from foreign Governments, including 23 applications from Germany, 14 from France, and 10 from Belgium. In 44 cases the accused person was extradited. The offences included 19 cases of larceny and embezzlement, 18 cases of fraud or false pretences, and 10 cases of forgery. The applications by the English Government numbered five, of which three were addressed to France.

Under the Fugitive Offenders Act, four persons were sent back from this country for trial in British Colonies.

Commissions Rogatoires.—The number of Orders made at the request of Foreign Governments under Section 5 of the Extradition Act, 1873, for the taking of evidence for use in criminal proceedings was 31.

Public Prosecutions.

The number of prosecutions undertaken by the Director of Public Prosecutions was 607. There were 101 capital cases, 170 prosecutions for Government Departments, and 288 prosecutions at the instances of judges, magistrates, police, &c. The number of persons prosecuted was 806, of whom 703 were charged with indictable offences, including 104 persons prosecuted for murder, 61 for incest, 76 for other offences against the person, 81 for frauds of various descriptions, 45 for bankruptcy offences, 64 for other offences against property, 224 for offences in connection with the currency, and 48 for other offences and misdemeanours. The remaining 103 persons were prosecuted for various non-indictable offences. Of the 806 persons prosecuted, 535 were convicted, and 32 were found "guilty, but insane."

Police Statistics.

Next in importance to the figures showing the action of the Criminal Courts come the figures showing the action of the police in dealing with crime.

Indictable Offences.—The number of indictable offences reported to the police or otherwise coming within their cognizance was 103,132. For these offences 64,388 persons were arrested, while 8,522 were dealt with by way of summons. In the case of offences against the person the number of crimes is very little more than the number of persons apprehended or summoned ; 3,934 crimes against the person were reported to the police, and 3,494 persons were either apprehended or summoned. In contrast with this, in offences against property with violence, the number of apprehensions amounts to little more than one-third of the number of crimes ; 13,692 crimes of this class were reported, and 4,689 persons were apprehended, only 121 being summoned. It is under the heads of burglary, housebreaking and shopbreaking that the ratio of apprehensions to crimes is lowest ; these are emphatically the crimes of the professional criminal, and the comparatively small number of arrests indicates merely that the burglar as a rule commits several burglaries before he is caught. On the other hand, against 211 crimes of robbery with violence reported to the police, we have 238 apprehensions. Under most of the other heads the apprehensions amount to about two-thirds of the crimes reported.

Of the 72,860 persons prosecuted, 11,995 were discharged, including 5,829 who were tried summarily and acquitted; orders were made without conviction in respect of 17,669 persons against whom the charges were proved; 29,211 were tried summarily and convicted; 13,695 were sent for trial at Assizes and Quarter Sessions; and 290 (including 188 persons charged with attempts to commit suicide) were otherwise disposed of, being for the most part bound over to come up for further examination if required, or the proceedings were adjourned sine die.

Bail was allowed in the case of 3,029 of the 13,695 persons committed for trial.

The percentage of persons admitted to bail in each of the last 12 years was as follows :—

1899	22·51 per cent.		1905	21·04 per cent.
1900	24·27	„	1906	22·02	„
1901	24·67	„	1907	22·19	„
1902	22·25	„	1908	20·07	„
1903	21·65	„	1909	21·06	„
1904	21·19	„	1910	22·12	„

Non-Indictable Offences.—Of the 638,182 persons charged with non-indictable offences, 282,053 were apprehended and 365,129 proceeded against by summons.

Persons under Police Supervision.—The number of persons who were under the supervision of the police during the year 1910, either as part of a sentence imposed on conviction, or as holders of licences under the Penal Servitude Acts, was 3,790 or, allowing for persons who have resided during the year in two police districts, about 2,482. Nearly half of the supervisees live in London. While 607, or more than 24 per cent., were re-convicted during the year, more than half of the whole number are reported to be living honestly, so far as the police know.

Habitual Criminals and Houses of Bad Character.—The Police estimate that on the first Tuesday in April, 1910, there were 3,972 habitual criminals at large, including 3,328 thieves, 468 receivers, and 176 other criminals. These figures include some, but not all, of the supervisees. The number of houses of bad character was estimated at 1,041, of which 345 were houses of receivers of stolen goods, and 696 were houses frequented by thieves.

Coroners' Inquests.

The tables compiled from the Coroners' returns, though not entirely criminal, are closely connected with the criminal tables, among which they are included. The chief object of the coroner's jury is to determine whether death is or is not due to a criminal act, and if it is found to be so by the verdict of the jury and the suspected person is found, criminal proceedings follow; the inquisition of the coroner being equivalent to an indictment found by a grand jury.

The total number of inquests held was 35,417, as against 36,724 in 1909, and an annual average of 36,634 for the five years 1905 to 1909.

Out of the total number of 35,417 deaths investigated by coroners' juries, 14,016 were found to be due to natural causes, including old age, 14,175 were accidental, 290 were still-births, and in 1,937 cases open verdicts were returned.

There were 3,529 cases of suicide, almost the same number as in the previous year (3,544).

The following statement shows the increase of suicides since 1857, both absolutely and in proportion to the population :—

Years.	Annual Number of Suicides.	Proportion per 100,000 Population.	Years.	Annual Number of Suicides.	Proportion per 100,000 Population.
1857–61 ...	1,309	6·65	1892–6 ...	2,646	8·79
1862–6 ...	1,353	6·48	1897–1901...	2,889	9·06
1867–71 ...	1,489	6·70	1902–6 ...	3,399	10·10
1872–6 ...	1,555	6·55	1907 ...	3,477	10·02
1877–81 ...	1,827	7·20	1908 ...	3,751	10·70
1882–6 ...	2,013	7·48	1909 ...	3,544	10·00
1887–91 ...	2,255	7·93	1910 ...	3,529	9·86

Verdicts of wilful murder were returned in 171 cases as against 165 in 1909, and an annual average of 165 for the five years 1905 to 1909. In 46 of these cases the inquests were held upon the bodies of newly-born children. 28 persons against whom verdicts of wilful murder were returned committed suicide at the time of the murder. In addition to the 171 cases of wilful murder there were 88 verdicts of manslaughter, making altogether a total of 259 culpable homicides.

There were 135 verdicts of death from disease and neglect, 227 of death from want, exposure, &c., and 581 of death from excessive drinking. The latter figure is of small statistical value, as alcoholism was probably a contributing cause of death in many cases included in other columns of the table.

The inquests upon the bodies of infants suffocated whilst in bed with their parents and others have shown a diminution since 1907.* The figures for the last six years are as follows :—

1905	...	1,465	1908	...	1,365
1906	...	1,453	1909	...	1,195
1907	...	1,473	1910	...	1,129

Penal Statistics.

Prison Returns.—The returns from the prisons show that the total number of convicted prisoners received into prison during the year 1910 was 168,260, exclusive of 349 prisoners convicted by Courts Martial. Of this number 9,354 came from Courts of Assize and Quarter Sessions, and 158,906 from Courts of Summary Jurisdiction. There were 28 persons received under sentence of death, and 997 sentences of penal servitude, the remainder being sentences of imprisonment. The number of convicted prisoners received under sentence of imprisonment without the option of a fine was 81,114, while 85,366 were imprisoned in default of payment of fines, and 111 in default of finding sureties. 111,955 prisoners were sentenced to hard labour, and 54,636 to imprisonment without hard labour.

The Court, on passing a sentence of imprisonment without hard labour, may direct a convicted prisoner to be treated either as an offender of the first division or as an offender of the second division. If no direction is given he is to be treated as an offender of the third division. Forty-two were ordered to be placed in the first division, and 1,624 in the second.

* Under Section 13 of the Children Act, 1908, the death of an infant under such circumstances is deemed to have been caused by criminal neglect if the child was in bed with a drunken person.

The number of persons ordered to be placed in the second division has undergone a great diminution in the last two years, as appears from the following statement :—

Year.	Total of Persons sentenced to imprisonment.	Number of Persons placed in Division II.	Percentage placed in Division II.
1900	145,534	2,033	1·40
1901	161,876	2,080	1·28
1902	169,922	2,199	1·29
1903	187,541	2,258	1·20
1904	197,336	2,361	1·20
1905	195,133	2,557	1·31
1906	182,645	2,352	1·29
1907	173,499	2,504	1·44
1908	183,446	2,097	1·14
1909	181,695	1,554	0·86
1910	166,591	1,624	0·97

The reduction is possibly due, not to the neglect of the Courts to make orders in suitable cases, but to the effect of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1907, and the Children Act, 1908, in enabling the substitution for imprisonment of other methods of dealing with youthful offenders and persons charged with venial or first offences.

More than 35 per cent. of the sentences of imprisonment were for one week and under, and nearly 26 per cent. were for more than one week and not more than two, while less than 1·0 per cent. were for periods longer than one year. The number of persons imprisoned in default of payment of fines was little more than 19 per cent. of the number of persons sentenced to pay fines.

The following statement covering the period from 1893 to 1910 shows that the proportion of persons who are imprisoned in default of payment of fines remains fairly stationary.

Year.	Number of Persons Sentenced to Pay Fines.	Persons received in Prison in Default of Payment of Fine.	Percentage of Persons Sentenced to Pay Fines who are received in Prison in Default.
1893	422,369	79,836	18·90
1894	444,459	81,349	18·30
1895	443,595	74,703	16·84
1896	475,962	78,743	16·54
1897	501,520	78,521	15·66
1898	545,283	84,031	15·41
1899	563,378	83,855	14·88

Nearly all of the persons convicted on indictment go to prison, but only between a third and a fourth of the persons convicted summarily—the majority of the remainder purging their offence by the payment of a fine.

No less than 54,305 persons out of a total of 168,260 sent to prison were convicted of drunkenness, 19,627 of simple larceny, 9,317 of other indictable offences, 9,454 of assaults, 26,454 of begging and sleeping out, 10,741 of offences against police regulations, 8,533 of prostitution and 3,781 of misbehaviour by paupers.

The criminal prisoners received in prison during the year included about 18,300 persons received on remand or committal for trial and afterwards discharged or acquitted.

There were also 18,479 non-criminal prisoners received, including 908 surety prisoners and 17,479 debtor prisoners. County Court debtors numbered 7,832 and 9,628 debtors were committed by Courts of Summary Jurisdiction, including 2,761 for non-payment of rates and 6,286 for non-payment of maintenance.

Borstal Institutions.—Four hundred and twenty-six persons (401 males and 21 females) sentenced by Courts of Assize and Quarter Sessions to Borstal Detention were admitted into Borstal Institutions. One hundred and sixty-four were convicted of burglary and similar offences, and 223 of larceny and fraud. The periods of detention ordered were one year 59, more than one year and not more than two 292, more than two years and not more than three 75. The total included 368 persons who had been previously convicted.

Reformatory Schools.—In 1910, there were 1,287 youthful offenders admitted to reformatory schools, of whom 14 were sent by Courts of Assize and Quarter Sessions, and 1,249 by Courts of Summary Jurisdiction.

Industrial Schools.—The total number of children admitted to ordinary industrial schools was 2,638. Of this number, 655 were charged with crime ; the remainder were mainly children found begging or wandering without a home, or not under parental control or not attending elementary schools.

In addition to the above figures, which relate only to ordinary industrial schools for long terms of detention, 777 boys were sent for briefer periods to " short term " schools, and 672 boys and 414 girls, most of whom were truants, were admitted to day industrial schools.

Places of Detention.—Section 108 of the Children Act, 1908, made it the duty of police authorities to provide (as substitutes for police stations and prisons) " Places of Detention " for the confinement of children and young persons charged with offences, in cases where the circumstances do not admit of discharge on bail. Children and young persons who are convicted may also be committed to places of detention, when no other available method of dealing with the case is suitable, but the sentence under detention cannot exceed one month.

Existing institutions, if suitable, may, by arrangement, be utilised as places of detention, or police authorities may provide special premises for the purpose.

The following table gives the figures for receptions into Places of Detention :—

Criminal Lunatics.—The number of criminal lunatics received into asylums during 1910 was 253, of whom 77 were found insane by verdict of jury, 19 were certified insane while under detention on remand or awaiting trial, and 157 were certified insane while serving sentence in prison. Ninety-two of the criminal lunatics were received into Broadmoor and Parkhurst Criminal Lunatic Asylums; the remainder, mostly persons serving short sentences who would soon become pauper lunatics, were received into County and Borough Asylums.

The total number of criminal lunatics under detention at the end of the year was 1,089, of whom no less than 472 were accused of or had committed murder; 411 persons had been detained upwards of 10 years.

Habitual Drunkards.—Three hundred and twenty-seven persons were received into inebriate reformatories, of whom 248 were women. Twenty-nine persons were convicted of indictable offences with habitual drunkenness (in 20 cases the offence was cruelty to children) and the remainder were convicted of habitual drunkenness only. The maximum term of detention of three years was imposed in 279 cases. Only one person was under 21 years of age. Five hundred and twenty-three persons were discharged from inebriate reformatories during the year, of whom 68 were released on licence.

The Prerogative of Mercy.

Out of 28 sentences of death, 12 were commuted to penal servitude for life. Two free pardons were granted; remissions of various terms of penal servitude and imprisonment, &c., were granted to 248 persons; while 63 convicts were released on licence in special cases at earlier dates than those allowed by the ordinary regulations. The requirement of reporting to the police was remitted in respect of 105 persons under police supervision.

Excluding the last class, the total number of cases in which the prerogative of mercy was exercised was 326. In 108 cases the remission was granted on medical grounds, and in 162 cases on grounds of a personal nature, such as youth or provocation. Only four persons were released on grounds affecting the original conviction.

The above figures relate to the ordinary exercise of the prerogative of mercy. In addition, on the occasion of His Majesty's Accession, a special remission was granted to all convicted prisoners who had, on the 23rd May, 1910, more than a month of their sentence unexpired. The remission was given on a graduated scale, based on the time each prisoner had still to serve. The total number of prisoners who benefited by the Royal Clemency was 11,873.

NOTES TO THE COMPARATIVE TABLES.

These Tables have been compiled from the annual Tables in the previous volumes of Judicial Statistics from 1893 to 1909, and from the Tables for 1910 in the present volume.

The figures are taken from the following Tables :—

Table B, Numbers tried for indictable offences by Courts of Summary Jurisdiction, from Table XI, column 2.

Table AB, Numbers of all Persons tried for indictable offences, obtained by adding the figures of Tables A and B.

Table C, Numbers tried for non-indictable offences by Courts of Summary Jurisdiction, from Table XI, column 2.

In each Table the headings for offences for which there were no figures are omitted.

Tables A to D differ in some respects from the comparative tables given in years prior to 1903. The period of comparison is now limited to the years since 1892, when the statistics were revised ; this enables the comparative figures to be given for each separate heading in the list of offences. Another change is, that the proceedings in Courts of Summary Jurisdiction are now divided into separate tables for indictable offences and non-indictable offences respectively.

Table E shows the average figures, both actual and in proportion to population, (a) of prosecutions for all crimes and offences since the establishment of the Judicial Statistics in 1857, and (b) of the crimes (indictable offences) reported to the police during the same period. The non-indictable offences are in this Table grouped in two divisions—those that are definitely criminal in character, and those which may be regarded as "non-criminal." The division of non-indictable offences into "criminal" and "non-criminal" is discussed at page 21 of the Criminal Statistics for 1898 and the offences included in the former group are specified at page 10 of the present volume.

In Table E the proportions are calculated on the population for the middle year of each period of years e.g., those for 1906 to 1910 on the estimated population for 1908, those for 1901 to 1905 on the estimated population for 1903.

NOTES ON CRIMINAL COURTS AND CRIMINAL PROCEDURE.

In England the chief Courts for the trial of criminal cases are the Assizes (including the Central Criminal Court) and the Courts of Quarter Sessions.

The King's Bench Division of the High Court of Justice has also power to try criminal cases. The number so tried is very small, and there was only one case in 1910.

In certain exceptional cases a Court held under Special Commission tries cases in the same way as a Court of Assize. No instances of this have occurred for several years.

Peers charged with treason or felony have the right to be tried by the House of Lords. One case was so tried in 1901.

Assizes.

The Assizes are the Courts held by His Majesty's Judges, when they go under Royal Commissions on Circuit for the administration of justice. They are held three times a year for each county, in certain cases four times. The Central Criminal Court is a court with similar powers sitting in London, and holding twelve sessions in the year. In law the term "Assizes" includes the sessions of the Central Criminal Court (Interpretation Act, 1889, section 13 (5)); and it is so used in these Statistics.

Quarter Sessions.

A Court of Quarter Sessions exists in each County, and in those Boroughs to which a separate Court has been granted by the Crown. A list of these Courts will be found in Table VII. The Court consists in Counties of the Justices for the County assembled in Quarter Session, in Boroughs of the Recorder of the Borough, a legal officer of high standing. Its sessions are held at least four times a year, sometimes more frequently, e.g., in London there were 24 sittings in the year 1910. The Court has powers co-ordinate with the Assizes, but less extensive ; all cases which can be tried at Quarter Sessions can be tried also at Assizes, but certain offences, such as treason, murder, perjury, libel, can be tried only at Assizes.*

All cases tried at Assizes and Quarter Sessions are tried on an indictment† presented by a Grand Jury, and the trial in every case without exception is by Jury.

Court of Criminal Appeal.‡

Under the provisions of the Criminal Appeal Act, 1907, persons convicted on indictment may (subject to the restrictions and regulations imposed by the Act), appeal against the conviction or sentence to the Court of Criminal Appeal. Statistics of the appeals decided in 1910 are given in Table X.

Courts of Summary Jurisdiction.

The inferior Criminal Courts for the trial of minor cases are the Courts of Summary Jurisdiction or Police Courts. In these trial is without Jury, and the Magistrates decide both as to law and to facts; their decisions are subject in most cases to appeal, though in practice, appeals are rare (Table XV).

A Court of Summary Jurisdiction consists ordinarily of the Justices of a Division of the County or of a Borough sitting in Petty Sessions. In most cases the presence of two Justices at least is necessary for the exercise of the powers of the Court; but in London and large towns there are Stipendiary Magistrates, who sit alone and have all the powers of two Justices. In certain other cases a Court of Summary Jurisdiction may consist of one Justice only, but its powers are then extremely limited.

In addition to hearing and determining all minor criminal cases, the Courts of Summary Jurisdiction conduct the preliminary investigation in those cases which are afterwards tried at Assizes and Quarter Sessions. If they find there is a primâ facie case they commit the accused to prison to await his trial, or bind him over in recognizances (usually with sureties) to appear at the Assizes or Sessions.

Courts of Summary Jurisdiction have also civil jurisdiction in certain matters. They also exercise certain powers in matters not strictly criminal, but closely allied to their criminal jurisdiction, of which particulars are given in Table XIV (Quasi-Criminal Proceedings).

---

* The Liberty of Peterborough has Commissions of Oyer and Terminer and General Gaol Delivery as well as the usual Commission of the Peace, and the Justices can therefore try offences not within the ordinary jurisdiction of Quarter Sessions.

† An inquisition of a Coroner's Jury is equivalent to an indictment, but cases tried on an inquisition are very rare.

‡ All jurisdiction and authority under the Crown Cases Act, 1848, in relation to questions of law, is now vested in the Court of Criminal Appeal (Criminal Appeal Act, 1907, sec. 20 (4)).

Indictable Offences.

As in Courts of Assize and Quarter Sessions the procedure is by indictment, the offences tried by these courts are called "indictable offences." All the ancient Common Law Offences are indictable, and so are all statutory offences unless the statute expressly provides some other mode of trial.

Non-Indictable Offences.

In distinction from these indictable offences, offences originally within the jurisdiction of Courts of Summary Jurisdiction are in these Tables designated "non-indictable." These are all, like the Courts of Summary Jurisdiction themselves, created by statute; and in every case they are expressly declared by the statute to be triable summarily.

Indictable Offences tried Summarily.

In certain cases offences which originally were tried on indictment only may now be tried summarily. This is done under sections 10, 11, 12, and 13 of the Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1879,* which superseded some earlier and more restricted enactments on the same subject. These offences appear in the Tables of the Proceedings of Courts of Summary Jurisdiction in a special section headed "Indictable Offences tried Summarily." In the Police Tables of indictable offences the cases heard summarily are shown in separate columns.

Non-Indictable Offences tried as if Indictable.

On the other hand certain offences ordinarily tried summarily may in exceptional cases be sent for trial at Assizes or Quarter Sessions "as if they were indictable." This class includes Assault (Offences against the Person Act, 1861, sec. 46), all offences other than assaults punishable with more than 3 months' imprisonment (Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1879, sec. 17), and some offences created by recent Acts, such as the Conspiracy, and Protection of Property Act, 1875, the Merchandise Marks Act, 1887, the Witnesses (Public Enquiries) Protection Act, 1892, the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1906, &c. These offences being ordinarily tried summarily are not separated from the other non-indictable offences in the Tables of the Proceedings of Courts of Summary Jurisdiction, and in the Tables of Non-indictable offences; but such cases as are actually sent for trial at Assizes and Quarter Sessions appear under appropriate heads (chiefly Assault, Intimidation, and Cruelty to Children) in the Assize and Quarter Sessions Tables, and in the Police Tables of Indictable Offences.

Proceedings at Assizes and Quarter Sessions.

The following are points which may be useful as explaining the headings of the columns in Tables I to V and VII.

At Assizes and Quarter Sessions the proceedings are commenced by the preferring of a bill of indictment or draft indictment before the Grand Jury. If the Grand Jury think that there is no primâ facie case against the person accused they return the draft indictment marked "no true bill," and the case is at an end. Otherwise they find the indictment or formal accusation on which the prisoner is tried. The prisoner is then arraigned or formally accused before the petty jury; and at this stage the question of the prisoner's sanity at the time of arraignment may be investigated by a jury. If found insane and unfit to plead he is not tried but is ordered to be detained during His Majesty's pleasure. Otherwise he is tried by the Jury.

On trial by Jury three verdicts are possible in ordinary cases: acquittal, conviction, or a special verdict to the effect that the prisoner was guilty of the act charged, but was insane at the time of committing it. If the latter is given, he is ordered to be detained during His Majesty's pleasure. On conviction, the Judge passes sentence, which may be death,† penal servitude, imprisonment, detention in an Inebriate Reformatory, detention in a Reformatory School (for offenders between 12 and 16 years of age), fine, whipping, or custody in a place of detention (for offenders under 16 years of age); or the Court may order the prisoner to enter into recognizances to come up for judgment when so required, and, in addition, may place the offender under the supervision of a probation officer—an order to this effect being termed a probation order. The Court may also order children under 14 years of age to be detained in an Industrial School.

* Libel may also in certain cases be tried summarily (44 & 45 Vict. c. 60, s. 5). The powers of Courts of Summary Jurisdiction for the trial of indictable offences have been further extended by the Inebriates Act, 1898, the Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1899, and the Children Act, 1908.

† The offences for which judgment of death may be pronounced by civil courts are murder, treason, piracy with violence, and arson of His Majesty's ships, arsenals, dockyards, &c. For the two last-named offences the Court may order the judgment of death to be entered of record, which has the same effect as if the judgment had been duly pronounced and the offender reprieved by the Court.

ASSIZES AND QUARTER SESSIONS.

NOTES.

(a.) The titles of offences (Column 1) are much condensed. The fuller titles, and the offences comprised under each head will be found in Appendix A on page 165.

In Tables III and IV offences not triable at Quarter Sessions are omitted, but the numbering of the heads is the same as in Tables I, II, and V.

(b.) The Tables show the numbers of persons prosecuted, not the number of offences. Where therefore any person is prosecuted at the same Assizes or Sessions for several offences, one offence has to be selected for tabulation : and the rule followed is to select that for which the proceedings were carried to the furthest stage—to trial if there were several indictments, to conviction and sentence if prisoner was tried on several charges. If there are several convictions, the offence selected is that for which the heaviest punishment was awarded. If the final result of proceedings on two or more charges is the same, the more serious offence (as measured by the maximum penalty allowed by the law) appears in the Tables.

(c.) Where, in addition to the offence thus selected for detailed tabulation, the same person is prosecuted for other offences of a distinct character and charged in separate indictments, the number of these additional charges is given in Columns 27 to 29 of Tables I, III, and V ; Column 27 giving the total number of such charges, Column 28 the number resulting in convictions, and Column 29 the number for which separate sentences (not concurrent with those in Columns 11 to 21) are passed. Only distinct offences charged in separate indictments are included in these columns : additional indictments merely varying the form of the charge, and additional charges appearing as counts in the same indictment, are excluded.

An exception is made, however, in the case of a charge under Part II of the Prevention of Crime Act, 1908, or Section 1 of the Inebriates Act, 1898. In the former case, if there is no conviction on the count of being an habitual criminal, or no sentence is passed therefor, no record appears in these statistics ; but if the prisoner is convicted and sentenced on the charge, the sentence of preventive detention appears in column 22 as an additional order made on his conviction of the specific offence which has led to his indictment as an habitual criminal.

In the case of a person convicted and sentenced as an habitual drunkard under Section 1 of the Inebriates Act, 1898, the sentence of detention in an Inebriate Reformatory is given in Column 16, whether it is in substitution for or in addition to a sentence of penal servitude or imprisonment. In the latter case the sentence of penal servitude or imprisonment does not appear in this table, but particulars are given in Table XLIX.

(d.) Where a person is prosecuted for one offence and convicted for another (e.g., committed for murder, and convicted of manslaughter) the case appears only under the offence of which he was convicted.

(e.) All the Tables are for the calendar year ending 31st December, and include only cases finally determined within the year. Cases not entirely disposed of within the year (e.g., tried, but sentence postponed) are held over for the next year's Tables.

When, however, the Epiphany Quarter Sessions commence before the end of the year, any cases disposed of on or before 31st December are included in the Return for the following year, so as to give four quarters uniformly in each year.

Tables I, III, and V.

(f.) Columns 2, 3, and 4 ("Numbers for Trial") include only such cases as actually come before the Assizes or Quarter Sessions. Persons who die, escape from prison, abscond while on bail, or are removed to an asylum before trial are not included.

(g.) Column 14 ("Imprisonment") does not include the sentences of imprisonment which sometimes precede sentences of detention in an Inebriate Reformatory, nor does it include sentences of imprisonment in default of payment of fine or in default of finding sureties.

(h.) Columns 18 and 24 ("Fine") include all cases where payment of a fine is imposed as the sentence or part of the sentence whether the fine is actually paid or not.

(i.) Columns 19, 20, and 26 ("Recognizances"), include cases where recognizances are required whether with or without sureties, and, if sureties are required, whether they are found or not.

(j.) Columns 22 to 26 are for those cases where more than one punishment is imposed for the same offence. Thus, if a young person convicted of larceny is sentenced to be imprisoned and whipped, the imprisonment appears in Column 14, the whipping in Colum .

(k.) Columns 27 to 29. See note (c) above.

Table VI.

(l.) The counties in this table are, as regards their area and boundaries, the administrative counties ; but Lincoln, Northampton, Cambridge, Suffolk, Sussex, and Southampton are each treated as one county, and county boroughs are included in the counties in which they are situated geographically. Bristol is included wholly in Gloucester, York in the North Riding of Yorkshire, and Stockport in Cheshire.

Table VII.

(m.) Where several persons are charged with the same offence, this is entered as one case in Column 2, but as several persons in Column 3.

(n.) Where there are several charges against the same person, this is entered as one case in Column 2. In selecting the offences for tabulation and giving the results of proceedings, the same rules are followed as in Tables I, III, and V.

Table VIII.

(o.) In this Table the title of offences which do not occur during the year are omitted, but the numbering is the same as in the preceding Tables. This note applies to Table IX also.

(p.) Children who have not completed their fourteenth year are regarded as under 14, and are entered in Column 5. Column 6 includes all persons who have completed 14 years, but not completed 16 years, and similarly with the other columns.

[a] Hertfordshire has only one Commission of the Peace, but separate Courts of Quarter Sessions are held for the two divisions of the County (37 & 38 Vict. c. 45).

[b] The jurisdiction of the Dover and Sandwich Quarter Sessions extends to such members of these two Cinque Ports as have no separate Courts of Quarter Sessions, but the population refers in each case to the Borough only, figures for the smaller areas not being yet available.

[c] Lancashire was divided for Assize purposes by an Order in Council, dated 4th May, 1864. The Northern Division comprises the Hundreds of Lonsdale, Amounderness, Leyland, and Blackburn. Salford Division comprises Salford Hundred, and West Derby Division comprises West Derby Hundred. The populations of the Assize and County Quarter Sessional areas do not include the Lancashire part of Stockport County Borough, the whole of which is included in Cheshire, separate figures not being available.

[c] Each of the three Parts of Lincolnshire has a separate Commission of the Peace.
[f] The Central Criminal Court having concurrent jurisdiction with the Court of Quarter Sessions, all criminal cases arising within the City are, as a matter of convenience, tried at the former Court.
[g] This Court is still held, but no prisoners are tried, and the proceedings are purely formal.
[h] The Soke or Liberty of Peterborough has had a separate Court of Quarter Sessions since the reign of Edward III, and in addition to the usual Commission of the Peace there are Commissions of Oyer and Terminer and of General Gaol Delivery.

[a] On the 31st March, 1910, Hanley County Borough was merged in the County Borough of Stoke-on-Trent which came into existence on that date. The figures for Hanley relate to the three months ended 31st March; the figures for Stoke-on-Trent relate to the remaining nine months of the year.

[b] The jurisdiction of the Hastings Borough Quarter Sessions includes the non-corporate members of the Cinque Port of Hastings, but the population refers to the Borough only, figures for the smaller areas not being yet available.

[c] The county of Warwick was divided for Assize purposes by an Order in Council, dated 26th June, 1884. The Birmingham Division consists of the City of Birmingham, and the Warwick Division comprises the remainder of the County.

[d] By an Order in Council, dated 10th June, 1864, the County of York was divided for Assize purposes into the "North and East Ridings Division," and the "West Riding Division."
[e] Each of the three Ridings of Yorkshire has a separate Commission of the Peace.
[f] The Liberty of Ripon has a separate Court of Quarter Sessions under the provisions of 6 & 7 Will. IV. c. 87 s. 9.
[g] Separate Court of Quarter Sessions granted, 2nd August, 1910.
[h] Separate Court of Quarter Sessions granted, 20th January, 1910.

					15,135													50			4,092

[a] This Total is made up of 15,489 boys and 927 girls under 14 years of age, 14,241 male and 810 female young persons aged 14 and under 16, and 1,969 males and 162 females aged above 16. In addition to the persons included in this return 537 children and 2,083 young persons were dealt with by ordinary Courts of Summary Jurisdiction, because they were charged jointly with adults, or were supposed to be aged above 16.

[b] Columns 3 and 5 include 53 cases of boys whipped with the consent of their parents and discharged.

COURTS OF SUMMARY JURISDICTION.

NOTES.

Tables XI, XII, and XIII.

(a.) These Tables include only offences tried summarily. All Indictable Offences where the Court does not actually assume the power to determine the case summarily are excluded. Further, these Tables include only cases where the proceedings are criminal—that is, lead if successful to a conviction. There are a large number of cases which are quasi-criminal in character, but where the procedure is by complaint, leading, not to a conviction, but to the making of an order. These are provided for in a separate Table—No. XIV.

(b.) The Tables show the number of persons prosecuted, not the number of offences. Where therefore any person is prosecuted at the same time for several offences one offence has to be selected for tabulation, and the rules followed are the same as in Tables I to V. (See note (b) page 30.)

(c.) The offences included under each of the titles of offences in Column 1 are stated in Appendix B on page 172.

Table XI.

(d.) Table XI corresponds to Tables I, III, and V, and (as regards length of sentences) to Tables II and IV.

(e.) Columns 4 to 6 include all persons dealt with under sections 1 and 2 of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1907, the entries being made as follows :—

Column 4.—Cases in which, although the charge is proved, the Court, without proceeding to conviction, makes an order dismissing the information or charge (section 1 (1) (i) of Act).

Column 5.—Similar cases, in which an order is made discharging the offender conditionally on his entering into a recognizance, with or without sureties, to be of good behaviour, and to appear for conviction and sentence when called upon (section 1 (1) (ii) of Act), but where no probation order is made.

Column 6.—Cases in which a probation order is made, i.e., in which the order for recognizances contains a condition placing the offender under supervision (section 2 of Act).

(f.) Column 7 "Committal to Industrial School," includes only those committals to Industrial Schools where an offence is charged—i.e., committals under Section 58 (2) and (3) of the Children Act, 1908, Section 12 of the Elementary Education Act, 1876, Section 5 (3) of the Employment of Children Act, 1903, and Articles 8 and 9 of the Order in Council of the 2nd April, 1909, relative to Day Industrial Schools. Other committals to Industrial Schools where the proceedings are not criminal appear in Table XIV and also in Table XLIV.

(g.) Column 8 includes committals to custody of relatives or other persons, made under section 58 (7) of the Children Act, 1908, in the cases of children charged with offences punishable with imprisonment, i.e., cases in which a committal to an industrial school could be made under section 58 (2) and (3) of the Children Act, 1908.

(h.) Columns 10 to 16, "Imprisonment," do not include the preliminary imprisonment in Inebriate Reformatory cases, nor terms of imprisonment in default of paying fine or of finding sureties.

(i.) Column 18, "Reformatory School," contains all cases of persons sentenced to Reformatory School detention, whether they are actually admitted to a reformatory or not. Details as to cases actually received in reformatories are given in Table XLIII.

(k.) Columns 20 and 24, "Fine," include all cases where a fine is imposed whether the fine is paid or not. The number of persons imprisoned in default of payment of fines is given in Table XXXV.

(l.) Column 21, "Recognizances," includes all cases where the defendant is ordered to find sureties upon conviction whether the sureties are found or not. Cases where a person is required to find sureties upon complaint are included in Table XIV.

Table XII.

(m.) This Table corresponds to Table VI, and the list of Counties is the same.

Table XIII.

(n.) This Table corresponds to Table VIII. The rule as to ages is the same. The first part gives the ages of all persons convicted summarily of indictable offences, and is exactly on the same basis as Table VIII. The second part, however, contains only persons apprehended and convicted : persons convicted on summons have to be excluded on account of the difficulty of ascertaining their ages.

PROBATION ORDERS.

XVII.—PROBATION ORDERS.—Offences of Persons released under Probation Orders, Age and Sex, and Number subsequently Sentenced.

XVIII.—PROBATION ORDERS.—Number of Persons released under Probation Orders in each Court or Police District, Age and Sex, and Number subsequently Sentenced.

(These Tables include all Probation Orders—those made by Assizes and Quarter Sessions and those made by Courts of Summary Jurisdiction).

TABLE XVII.—PROBATION ORDERS.—Offences of Persons released under Probation Orders, Age and Sex, and Number subsequently Sentenced.

Table XXI.—PUBLIC PROSECUTIONS.—Number of Prosecutions undertaken by the Director of Public Prosecutions, and Results.

(a.) "Offences."—The titles of the indictable offences are the same as in Tables I to V; of non-indictable offences as in Table XI. The table includes all prosecutions completed within the year; cases pending at the end of the year are reserved for inclusion in next year's tables.

(b.) In Columns 2 to 6, "number of prosecutions undertaken," each case appears as one only, though several persons may be involved or several charges brought. In Columns 7 to 15 (number of persons prosecuted, &c.) the number of persons is given. Where the same person is prosecuted for several offences, one offence is selected for tabulation by the same rule as is followed in Tables I to V. In such cases, the number of charges not included in Columns 2 to 15 is given in Column 16.

POLICE RETURNS.

NOTES.

Table XXII.

(a.) Column 1, "Offences."—The titles of the offences are the same as in Tables I to V.

(b.) Column 2, "Number of Crimes known to police."—This column includes all crimes reported to the police or otherwise coming to their knowledge within the year whether committed by the same or different persons, and whether any apprehension takes place within the year or not.

(c.) If there is a committal or conviction within the year, the table shows the nature of the crime as judicially determined. Failing this, the charge which is named in the summons or warrant or on which the prisoner is arrested is taken as determining the crime. If there are no proceedings and no apprehension, the character of the crime is judged by the facts so far as known to the police.

(d.) In Columns 3 to 18 the number of persons proceeded against is given, not the number of crimes or charges. A person charged at the same time with several offences appears as one person only. In selecting the offence for tabulation the same principle is followed as in Tables I to V—the charge resulting in conviction or committal for trial has preference to the others ; and subject to this the more serious offence is selected. If there are two or more convictions, that for which the heavier sentence is inflicted is regarded as the more serious. These columns include only cases disposed of within the year. Cases pending at the end of the year are reserved for inclusion in the following year's table.

(e.) Columns 4 and 12, "Discharged," contain cases where the magistrate does not assume power to try the case summarily, but discharges the accused under Section 25 of the Indictable Offences Act, 1848.

(f.) Columns 5 and 13, "Tried Summarily and Acquitted," contain cases where, after the magistrate has decided to deal summarily with the case, the charge is dismissed or withdrawn.

(g.) The entries in columns 6 and 14 include the following cases :—

(i) All cases dealt with under sections 1 and 2 of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1907, i.e., cases where the charge is held to be proved, but the court, without convicting, made an order dismissing the charge, or an order for the offender to enter into recognizances, or a probation order.

(ii) Children under 12 charged with indictable offences committed to industrial schools under section 58 (2) and (3) of the Children Act, 1908.

(iii) Committals to custody of relatives and others made under section 58 (7) of the Children Act, 1908, in the cases of children charged with indictable offences, i.e., cases in which a committal to an industrial school could be made under section 58 (2) and (3) of the Children Act, 1908.

(h.) Columns 8 and 16, "Committed for Trial and Detained," include all persons committed to prison and places of detention to await trial, whether they are subsequently released on bail or not.

Table XXIII.

(i.) The titles of the offences are the same as in Table XI (B), and, as in that Table, only criminal proceedings are included.

(j.) Notes (c) and (d) above apply to this table.

(k.) Note (g) above applies to entries in columns 4 and 9 of this table, with the substitution of non-indictable offences for indictable offences.

Tables XXVI and XXVII.

(l.) Table XXVI gives the number of crimes in each Police District, i.e., the number of crimes of the nature of Indictable Offences reported within the year to the Police as committed within the Police District. Table XXVII is the corresponding Table for Non-Indictable Offences ; but as in this case no figures of the number of offences committed or reported to the police can be given, the table gives the number of persons proceeded against. In other words Table XXVI gives the distribution in Police Districts of the figures in Column 2 of Table XXII, Table XXVII the distribution in Police Districts of the figures in Columns 2 and 7 of Table XXIII.

RETURNS FROM THE SEVERAL POLICE DISTRICTS.

TABLE XXIX.—Habitual Criminals at Large and Houses of Bad Character in each District.

The enumeration for the purposes of these Tables was made on the first Tuesday in April 1910.

Columns 2 to 5, "Number of Habitual Criminals at Large," include persons who are known to engage habitually in crime as their means, or part of their means, of livelihood. Persons previously convicted, but not habitual criminals, are not included. Crime is understood in the sense given to it by the definition in Section 20 of the Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, viz., any felony and the following misdemeanours:—uttering or possessing counterfeit coin, false pretences, conspiracy to defraud, and possession of house-breaking implements, or any offence under Section 58 of the Larceny Act, 1861.

Column 7, "Houses of Receivers of Stolen Goods," includes houses reasonably suspected of being used for the receipt of stolen goods, whether there is an actual conviction against the occupier or not.

Columns 8, 9, and 10 include all houses where thieves and other habitual criminals regularly resort and meet, whether or not the occupiers of the houses are suspected of wilfully harbouring them, or of complicity in their crimes.

NOTES TO CORONERS' TABLES.

Table XXX.

(a.) Inquests held on several bodies simultaneously (e.g., where several persons have been killed at the same time by a railway accident or a colliery explosion) are in this Table and Table XXXI reckoned, not as one inquest, but as separate inquests on each person.

(b.) Columns 3 and 5 include the inquests on the bodies of children who at the time of death had not completed one year; columns 4 and 6 the inquests on those who had completed one year, but not completed seven years, and similarly in the other columns. Where the actual age is not known, the age is estimated as nearly as possible.

Table XXXI.

(c.) Column 8 ("Disease Aggravated by Neglect by Others") and column 11 ("Want of Attention at Birth") include those cases of neglect which fall short of manslaughter.

(d.) Column 9 ("Want, Exposure, &c.") includes verdicts of death by disease aggravated by want, exposure, or by self-neglect, and column 10 ("Excessive Drinking") includes verdicts of death by disease aggravated by excessive drinking.

(e.) Column 13 ("Death from Natural Causes") includes verdicts of death by disease or death from old age.

(f.) Columns 19 and 20 include inquests on the bodies of children who have died shortly after birth, or who, so far as is known or can be judged, have not lived longer than 24 hours. The cases shown in columns 19 and 20 are also entered according to the cause of death in columns 2 to 18.

TABLE XXXII.—PRISONERS.—Receptions of Prisoners in each Prison.

(a). CRIMINAL PRISONERS.

Note.—This table gives the numbers of each class of criminal prisoners received in each prison during the year. In the case of prisoners committed for trial it is necessary to distinguish those who were and those who were not previously in prison on remand; otherwise in making up the total the same person would, in many cases, count twice—as a remand prisoner and as a prisoner committed for trial. Similarly convicted prisoners have to be divided into those who were and those who were not in detention before trial. The figures of the cases which thus appear a second or a third time are printed in italics, columns 3, 5 and 7. The total of criminal prisoners, column 10, is obtained by adding the figures in the other columns 2, 4, 6, 8 and 9.

The table gives only the first receptions of prisoners on remand, committal for trial, &c. When prisoners are transferred from one prison to another they appear only in the return from the prison in which they are first received, not in that from the prison to which they are removed. Hence no receptions into convict prisons are shown, as all convicts undergo some detention in local prisons before transfer to convict prisons.

TABLE XXXIII.—CONVICTED PRISONERS.—Nature of Sentences of Prisoners received in each Prison.

Notes.—(a) This table includes all persons received under sentence during the year from 1st January to 31st December, whether they were in prison before conviction or not.
(b) All prisoners appear in the return from the prison in which they are first received after sentence, and not in the return for any prison to which they may be subsequently removed.
(c) Column 6 includes cases where a licence is forfeited on conviction by a Court of Summary Jurisdiction for an offence under Section 5 of the Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871. Other cases of forfeiture and all cases of revocation of licence are included in column 12.

TABLE XXXIX.—UNCONVICTED PRISONERS.—Terms of Detention, before Trial, of Persons tried in each Court.

he term of detention is reckoned from the date on which the prisoner was committed for trial to the date on which his trial commenced, both these days being included. Where a prisoner after committal prison was released on bail, the detention is reckoned to the date of release on bail. The number acquitted includes cases in which the Grand Jury returned no bill; in these cases the detention is ckoned to the date of the decision of the Grand Jury.

PLACES OF DETENTION.

XLV.—PLACES OF DETENTION.—Receptions of Children and Young Persons.

BORSTAL INSTITUTIONS.

Borstal Institutions are places in which young offenders, aged upon conviction not less than sixteen nor more than twenty-one years, may be given such industrial training and other instruction, and be subjected to such disciplinary and moral influences as will conduce to their reformation and the prevention of crime.

Courts of Assize and Quarter Sessions may sentence persons within the limits of age, who are convicted of offences punishable with penal servitude or imprisonment, to Borstal Detention for not less than one year nor more than three years.

Borstal Institutions have been established at Borstal, Canterbury, Feltham, and Lincoln for males, and at Aylesbury for females.

Table XLII supplements the information given in Tables I, III, and V with regard to persons sentenced to Borstal detention, and shows also in what manner the persons who left the Institutions during the year were disposed of. Other information concerning the inmates and management of Borstal Institutions is given in the Annual Report of the Commissioners of Prisons [Cd. 5891].

REFORMATORY AND INDUSTRIAL SCHOOLS.

Reformatory Schools are institutions to which youthful offenders between the ages of twelve and sixteen years are committed for industrial training. Industrial Schools receive for the same purpose children under the age of fourteen years who are charged with offences or whose circumstances and surroundings are such as to make it probable that they will fall into criminal habits or modes of life or become the victims of criminal or immoral influences.

On the 31st December, 1910, there were in existence 36 reformatory schools (27 for male offenders and nine for females), 125 residential industrial schools (80 for boys and 45 for girls), and 13 day industrial schools in which children of both sexes are received. The boys' residential industrial schools include 8 "short-term" schools, mainly devoted to offenders against the Education Acts, whom it is the practice to release on licence after a comparatively brief period of detention.

Tables XLIII and XLIV supply information additional to the particulars given in Tables I, III, V, XI, XIV, and XVI, concerning the children and young persons committed by the courts to reformatory and industrial schools during the year, and also show in what manner those who left the institutions in the same period were disposed of. Particulars concerning the inmates and management of the institutions are given in the annual report of the Inspector of Reformatory and Industrial Schools [Cd. 5949].

PLACES OF DETENTION.

Places of detention are provided by police authorities for the temporary detention of children and young persons under sixteen years of age charged with offences, when the circumstances do not admit of release upon recognizances and it would otherwise be necessary to confine the child or young person in a police station or prison.

Children or young persons convicted of offences punishable in the case of adults by penal servitude or imprisonment, may be committed to places of detention for terms not exceeding one month.

Places of detention consist of—

(1) Institutions used for the purpose by arrangement, and

(2) (in a few large cities), premises specially established for the purpose.

The former classes of premises include reformatory schools (for convicted cases only), industrial schools, boys' and girls' refuges and homes, workhouses, and similar institutions.

Note to Section (a).

This table comprises all admissions into Industrial Schools during the year. In Day Industrial Schools children attending under Attendance Orders, voluntary cases, and cases received on licence from Industrial Schools are included. Re-admissions on revocation of licence or on re-capture after escape are not included, nor are admissions on transfer from another school.

The following are the different classes of committals distinguished in columns 4 to 18 :—

Column 4.—Children, apparently under the age of 14 years, found begging or receiving alms (whether or not there is any pretext of singing, playing, performing, or offering anything for sale), or being in any street premises or place for the purpose of so begging or receiving alms (Children Act, 1908, sec. 58).

Column 5.—Children, apparently under the age of 14 years, found wandering, and not having any home or settled place of abode, or visible means of subsistence, or proper guardianship (Children Act, 1908, sec. 58).

Column 6.—Children, apparently under the age of 14 years, found destitute, not being orphans, and having both parents or the surviving parent undergoing penal servitude or imprisonment (Children Act, 1908, sec. 58).

Column 7.—Children, apparently under the age of 14 years, under the care of a parent or guardian unfit by reason of criminal or drunken habits (Children Act, 1908, sec. 58).

Column 8.—Girls, apparently under the age 14 years, whose father has been convicted of an offence under section 4 or 5 of the Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885, against a daughter (Children Act, 1908, sec. 58).

Column 9.—Children, apparently under the age of 14 years, that frequent the company of reputed thieves (Children Act, 1908, sec. 58).

Column 10.—Children, apparently under the age of 14 years, lodging, or residing in a house used by any prostitute for the purpose of prostitution, or who have been living in circumstances calculated to cause, encourage, or favour the seduction or prostitution of the child (Children Act, 1908, sec. 58).

Column 11.—Children, apparently under the age of 12 years, who are charged with an offence punishable in the case of an adult by penal servitude or a less punishment (Children Act, 1908, sec. 58).

Column 12.—Children, apparently aged above 12 years and under the age of 14 years, who are charged with an offence punishable in the case of an adult by penal servitude or a less punishment (Children Act, 1908, sec. 58).

Column 13.—Children whose parents or guardians prove to a Petty Sessional Court that they are unable to control the child, and that they desire that the child be sent to an industrial school (Children Act, 1908, sec. 58).

Column 14.—Children, inmates of a workhouse or pauper school, in respect of whom the guardians or school managers satisfy a Petty Sessional Court that they are refractory, or that they are the children of parents, either of whom has been convicted of an offence punishable with penal servitude or imprisonment, and that it is desirable that the child should be sent to an industrial school (Children Act, 1908, sec. 58).

Column 15.—Children sent to an industrial school for non-compliance with an attendance order, made on the ground that his parent habitually, and without reasonable excuse, neglected to provide efficient elementary education for him (Elementary Education Act, 1876, sec. 12, and Children Act, 1908, sec. 58).

Column 16.—Children committed to an industrial school for non-compliance with an attendance order, made on the ground that the child was found habitually wandering, or not under proper control, or in the company of rogues, vagabonds, disorderly persons, or reputed criminals (Elementary Education Act, 1876, sec. 12, and Children Act, 1908, sec. 58).

Column 17.—Children ordered to be sent to a Day Industrial School who are guilty of a serious and wilful breach of the rules of the school, or who wilfully neglect to attend thereat (Order in Council, 2nd April, 1909, Arts. VIII. and IX.).

Column 18.—Children sent to industrial schools for contravention of byelaws for the regulation of street trading made under the Employment of Children Act, 1903, or under local Acts.

In Day Industrial Schools there are also the following classes :—

Column 19.—Children received into Day Industrial Schools under Attendance Orders (Children Act, 1908, sec. 79).

Column 20.—Children received into Day Industrial Schools without order of Court (Children Act, 1908, sec. 79).

Column 21.—Children attending Day Industrial Schools in pursuance of licences from the Managers of Industrial Schools (Children Act, 1908, secs. 67 and 77).

CRIMINAL LUNATICS.

XLVI.—CRIMINAL LUNATICS.—Receptions into Asylums and Discharges during the Year.

XLVII.—CRIMINAL LUNATICS.—Numbers confined in Asylums on 31st December, 1910.

XLVIII.—CRIMINAL LUNATICS.—Offences.

TABLE XLVI.—CRIMINAL LUNATICS.—Receptions into Asylums and Discharges during the Year.

In columns 2 to 6 each case is shown as a reception in the asylum in which the patient is first received as a criminal lunatic. Removals from one as another are not shown.

In columns 12 to 14 "Absolutely discharged," means absolutely discharged from the condition of criminal lunatic under section 5 of the Criminal Act, 1884. Persons so discharged, if still insane, are detained as ordinary lunatics.

Upon the King's Accession, His Majesty granted the following remission of sentence to all convicted prisoners in England and Wales who, on May 23, 1910, had still to serve more than a month of their sentences of imprisonment or penal servitude:—

To those who had one month or more still to serve, one week;

To those who had one year or more still to serve, one month;

To those who had three years or more still to serve, two months; to those who had five years or more still to serve, three months.

This special remission was given subject to the reports as to the prisoners' conduct and industry being satisfactory.

The number of prisoners eligible to benefit by this act of clemency was 11,873.

These special remissions are not included in the above Table.

(a.)—The classification of the grounds on which pardons, &c., are granted requires some further explanation:—

Column 3, "On grounds affecting the original conviction," includes pardons or remissions of sentence granted on account of fresh evidence establishing the prisoner's innocence, or showing reasonable doubt as to guilt, or altering the view taken as to the legal character of the offence.

Column 5, "On medical grounds," includes persons discharged solely on medical grounds, e.g., persons whose lives were endangered by imprisonment, and women near their confinement, who, if longer detained, would not have been fit for discharge at the expiration of their sentence. Where the medical condition of the persons formed only a part of the grounds for the exercise of the prerogative, the cases are tabulated under other heads.

Column 7, "In simple mitigation of Sentence," in distinction from column 3, comprises all cases where the mitigation granted does not imply any alteration of the view taken by the Court as to the prisoner's guilt or as to the legal character of his offence, but where weight is given with or without a recommendation from the judge or magistrate, to such extenuating circumstances as youth, provocation, mental disturbance, &c.; also cases where remission is granted for reasons not cognizable to the Court, as where a short remission enables a prisoner to avail himself of some special opportunity of making a new start in life.

Column 8, "Other cases."—Eight of the persons in this column were soldiers convicted of comparatively slight offences who were released in order that they might be sent on foreign service, and thirteen were alien prisoners ordered to be deported, who were released a few days before the expiration of their sentence to facilitate arrangements for deportation.

(b.)—"Remanet."—When a convict is released on licence he is liable, if again convicted, to undergo a term of penal servitude equal to the portion of his original sentence unexpired at the time of his release. This is known as a "remanet."

Percentage to Proceedings begun ...	—	—	—	—	31·64	31·33	31·53	—

In the total proceedings begun in all Courts, with a few unimportant exceptions, there was in 1910 a slight decrease [1,475,422 against 1,513,005], attributable chiefly to a decrease in County Court plaints.

In all Courts there was also a decrease, subject to similar exceptions, in proceedings heard and determined [466,894 against 473,991] ; the decline being chiefly in the County Courts.

The total volume of litigation is, of course, determined by the plaints in those Courts, and in them there has been for many years, on the whole, a steady increase, reaching its maximum in 1904. This increase would now seem to be arrested.

The figures for 1910 were doubtless affected by the state of employment and trade ; the former influencing particularly the County Court plaints. Employment in each month in the year was better than in the corresponding months of 1908 and 1909, and there was an increase in the wages in all the Board of Trade selected trades, a circumstance which would tend to reduce plaints. On the other hand, the general level of retail prices rose, and the number of workpeople involved in trade disputes was higher than in any year since 1893 ; which would have the opposite effect.

Probably economic causes, such as the state of trade, operate more directly and immediately upon litigation in the superior Courts, including the King's Bench ; actions in them may last more than a year ; the cause of action may have arisen long before the writ was issued, or the trial took place.

Population would seem to be increasing faster than litigation. An examination of the course of litigation shows that there is a sort of rhythm in it, and that there have been a maximum decline and a maximum rise about

* Including proceedings in Bankruptcy and Companies Winding up.
† The figures for Lancaster Chancery Court may include proceedings in Companies Winding up in the Durham Chancery Court.

every nine or ten years. The number per 100,000 was 4,113—which is distinctly less than usual, as appears from this statement :—

Year.	Number per 100,000.	Year.	Number per 100,000.
1910	4,122	1905	4,316
		1904	4,498
1909	4,232	1903	4,369
1908	4,250	1902	4,274
1907	4,148	1901	4,165
1906	4,205
Annual Average, 1906–10.	4,218	Annual Average, 1901–05.	4,338

The high figures for 1903–1905 corresponded to low average wages and high average retail prices. The above figures compared with those for 1895, 1897, 1898 and 1899 show an increase ; proceedings begun being 4,087, 3,988, 4,075 and 3,995 ; and proceedings heard, 1,370, 1,323, 1,329 and 1,348 respectively.

Last year the decline in cases begun was general. Almost the only Court in which they showed an increase in proportion to population was the Probate Court.

It may be of interest to compare these figures with those in communities with systems of law somewhat similar to our own. I take first some of our colonies, beginning with New Zealand. The total cases begun were :—

Year.	Lower Courts.	Superior Courts.	Total.	Per 100,000 of Population.
1909	52,456	1,590	54,046	5,561·52
1908	42,877	1,483	44,360	4,693·87
1907	42,561	1,284	43,845	4,770·40
1906	40,540	1,160	41,700	4,656·13
1905	37,157	1,141	38,298	4,402·07

Next, Australia :—

Year.	Lower Courts.	Superior Courts.	Total.	Per 100,000 of Population.
1909	110,533	2,301	112,834	2,579·57
1908	101,154	2,316	103,470	2,420·18
1907	88,342	2,234	90,576	2,158·09
1906	81,830	2,416	84,246	2,045·06
1905	82,145	2,789	84,934	2,095·88

It is somewhat remarkable that, tested by population, the litigation in New Zealand is apparently about twice as much as that in Australia.

I also give for 1909 the proportion of cases in the Lower and Superior Courts in these communities, and the corresponding figures for England and Wales :—

Proportion of Cases begun in	England and Wales.	Australia.	New Zealand.
	Per cent.	Per cent.	Per cent.
Lower Courts	94·94	97·96	97·27
Superior Courts ...	5·06	2·04	2·73

Thus the proportion of cases in the Superior Courts in England and Wales is about twice as much as in these colonies.

It is difficult to compare our judicial system with the systems of France and Germany. In the latter there are no exact equivalents for some proceedings in the former. But a few figures as to these countries may be of interest. The latest accessible figures for France as to proceedings begun which relate to the year 1908* are 1,949,029, or 4,963·53 per 100,000 of the estimated population in that year.

The latest accessible figures for Germany as to civil proceedings begun in courts of first instance relate to the year 1909 and are as follows :—

Local Courts (Amtsgerichte)...	...	5,804,958
District Courts (Landgerichte)	...	447,924
Total	...	6,252,882

which is equivalent to 10,372·17 cases per 100,000 of the enumerated population on the 1st December, 1905 (the estimated population for 1909 not being available.)

In the introduction to the judicial statistics for last year it was stated that the Scotch figures showed "a proportion of 2,595·78 per 100,000 of estimated population or roughly about half as many as in the Courts of England and Wales" (page 12). Substantially the same proportion existed in 1910, being in fact 2,579·42. On the whole, it would seem that the number of cases in England and Wales, though much greater than in Scotland, as tested by population, is much less than in Germany.

From the above facts it appears that certain countries such as Scotland or Australia show a low rate of litigation ; others, such as Germany have a high rate. The proportion of cases in the superior courts is much higher in England than in France or Germany.

The Judicial Committee of the Privy Council and the House of Lords.

There was a considerable increase in the petitions to the Judicial Committee (142 against 92), and a somewhat similar decline in petitions to the House of Lords (89 against 108). In fact, the number of petitions to the former was the largest recorded for many years.

In view of proposed legislation as to the Judicial Committee, it may be of interest to review the business of the two Courts. The following statement shows the petitions to the Judicial Committee and the appeals to the House of Lords for the last ten years :—

Year.	Judicial Committee.	House of Lords.	Total.
1910	142	89	231
1909	92	108	200
1908	97	112	209
1907	75	93	168
1906	99	53	152
1905	84	75	159
1904	93	73	166
1903	113	80	193
1902	85	96	181
1901	98	76	174

The corresponding figures for matters heard were :—

Year.	Judicial Committee.	House of Lords.	Total.
1910	64	74	138
1909	66	60	126
1908	76	84	160
1907	78	73	151
1906	89	45	134
1905	92	75	167
1904	84	54	138
1903	81	58	139
1902	71	49	120
1901	64	47	111

* Kindly communicated by M. Yvernes of the Ministry of Justice.

It thus appears that in both Courts there is a tendency to increase.

The numbers of days of sittings of the two tribunals were :—

Year.	Judicial Committee.	House of Lords.	Total.
1910	76	87	163
1909	91	94	185
1908	87	83	170
1907	74	110	184
1906	87	70	157
1905	95	96	191
1904	90	94	184
1903	80	77	157
1902	76	76	152
1901	78	84	162

I give some particulars as to the costs of cases in the Judicial Committee and the House of Lords. As usual, the costs in the latter considerably exceed those in the former :—

	Number of Bills Taxed.	Amount brought in.		Amount allowed.
		Total.	Average.	Total.	Average.
		£	£	£	£
Judicial Committee	57	19,860	348	15,820	278
House of Lords ...	62	36,941	596	22,629	365

A further statement shows the average costs for 1901–5 and 1906–10 :—

Judicial Committee of the Privy Council.

Year.	Total Number of Bills Taxed.	Total Amount brought in.	Total Amount allowed.	Average Amount brought in.	Average Amount allowed.
		£	£	£	£
Annual Average, 1901–05.	68·8	21,012	16,874	305	245
Annual Average, 1906–10.	64·8	23,718	18,570	366	287
Annual Average, 1901–10.	66·8	22,365	17,722	335	265

House of Lords.

Year.	Total Number of Bills Taxed.	Total Amount brought in.	Total Amount allowed.	Average Amount brought in.	Average Amount allowed.
		£	£	£	£
Annual Average, 1901–05.	54·2	29,640	19,866	547	367
Annual Average, 1906–10.	57·0	31,434	20,641	551	362
Annual Average, 1901–10.	55·6	30,537	20,254	549	364

In both Courts may be noticed a tendency for costs to increase. In part explanation of the higher average costs in the House of Lords, it should be stated that they include the cost of printing of documents and case, generally a large element in the costs.

In not a few of the cases which come before the House of Lords there were dissentient judgments in the Courts below. In the former also there are occasionally dissentient opinions. Fifty-one cases in the House of Lords reported in the Law Reports of 1910 have been analysed, with the following results :—

Judgments of Court of Appeal appealed from.		Judgment of House of Lords.
		Dismissing Appeal.		Allowing Appeal.
Nature of Judgment.	Number of Judgments.	Unanimous.	With dissentients.	Unanimous.	With dissentients.
Dismissing Appeal from judgments or orders of High Court :—
Unanimous	14	11	1	2	—
With dissentients ...	6	4	—	2	—
Allowing Appeal from judgments or orders of High Court :
Unanimous	23*	15	2	6	—
With dissentients ...	8*	3	1	3	1
Total	51	33	4	13	1

* Including one case in which the order of the High Court was varied.

In the Court of Appeal there had been dissentients to 27 per cent. of the judgments which were the subjects of appeal ; in the House of Lords there were dissentients in only 10 per cent. of the final decisions.

The average numbers per case of the judges for and against the final decisions (including the judges in the High Court and the Court of Appeal) were in the 51 above cases as follows :—

Decisions of Court of Appeal.	Decisions of House of Lords.	Number of Judges per case.
		For final result.	Against final result.
Judgment or order of High Court confirmed.	Court of Appeal decision confirmed ...	7·8 or 95 %	0·4 or 5 %
	Court of Appeal decision reversed ...	4·5 „ 55 %	3·7 „ 45 %
Judgment or order of High Court reversed.	Court of Appeal decision confirmed ...	7·2 „ 82 %	1·6 „ 18 %
	Court of Appeal decision reversed ...	6·2 „ 74 %	2·2 „ 26 %
	Totals ...	7·0 or 80 %	1·5 or 20 %

There were only three cases in which the numbers of the judges for and against the final decision of the House of Lords were equal, and no cases in which a majority of the judges were adverse thereto.

Of the 51 decisions of the High Court brought under review by the House of Lords, 39 per cent. had been confirmed by the Court of Appeal : in the House of Lords the percentage of confirmations rose to 51. The decisions of the Court of Appeal were confirmed by the House of Lords in 73 per cent. of the cases.

But it must be borne in mind that these figures bear no relation to the totals of the decisions of the Courts of Appeal and High Court. Except for special reasons, e.g., to obtain an authoritative settlement of a novel point of law, appeals are entered only when there is a reasonable prospect of obtaining a reversal or modification of the decision, and the bulk of the decisions of the High Court and Court of Appeal therefore remain unchallenged.

Court of Appeal.

In the Court of Appeal there was a slight decline in the number of appeals set down (814 against 826). The decline was in appeals from interlocutory orders (208 against 224). There was no diminution, however, in the appeals under the Workmen's Compensation Act, which were the maximum yet recorded (134). As to these, it may be mentioned that out of 100 appeals in which the point in the Act on which the appeal arose is known, no fewer than 25 turned on the words of the Statute "accident arising out of, and in the course of the employment" in Section I (1) of the Act.

There was a decline in the Appeals disposed of (827 against 867). I give a retrospect of the business for 10 years :—

Year.	Appeals Set Down.	Appeals Disposed of.	Appeals pending at end of Year.
1910	814	827	152
1909	826	867	165
1908	874	823	206
1907	812	993	155
1906	750	692	336
Annual Average, 1906–1910	815·2	840·4	202·8
1905	754	729	278
1904	824	831	253
1903	801	948	260
1902	862	929	391
1901	978	850	458
Annual Average, 1901–1905	843·8	856·4	328·0

These figures show a slight tendency to decrease, with a distinct decline in the arrears. Speaking generally, we may say that about 800 appeals are annually set down, and that about three-fourths of that number are actually heard.

To appreciate these figures one must know what percentage they bear to the total cases heard and determined in the court below :—

Year.	Actions heard and determined in the High Court of Justice.	Appeals to the Court of Appeal from the High Court of Justice Set Down.*	Percentage of Appeals.
1910	3,883	659	16·97
1909	3,855	675	17·51
1908	3,892	740	19·01
1907	3,812	746	19·57
1906	3,607	680	18·85
Annual Average, 1906–10.	3,809·8	700·0	18·37
1905	3,948	668	16·92
1904	4,199	738	17·58
1903	4,233	727	17·17
1902	4,566	791	17·32
1901	4,299	826	19·21
Annual Average, 1901–05.	4,249·0	750·0	17·65

* Including only appeals from judgments or orders of the High Court of Justice.

High Court of Justice.

Chancery Division.—In the Chancery Division there was a further decline in business (the proceedings begun being 6,006 against 6,029), the smallest number yet recorded, though the actual number of writs issued was somewhat larger (3,101 against 2,850). For some time the business of this Division has been declining, and it would seem that the decline has of late become more accentuated, as appears from this statement of quinquennial average of decreases.

The average decline in proceedings begun has been—

1906–1910	... ...	11·64 per cent.
1901–1905	... ...	6·79 per cent.
1896–1900	(increase)	3·75 per cent.
1891–1895	... ...	3·92 per cent.
1886–1890	... ...	2·21 per cent.

Last year there was a decline in Orders made (12,686 against 13,623) ; the actions disposed of fell from 629 to 571, the number of taxations from 8,412 to 7,647, the amount of costs brought in from £858,397 to £826,502, and the amount allowed from £727,840 to £684,383. One test of all kinds of business of the Division is the amount of fees, which were £42,847 against £43,999 in 1909. The average for 1886–90 was £62,628 ; in 1906–1910 it was £44,070. On the whole, the returns tell of a steadily declining business in this Division ; it is one of the most striking facts in the returns of recent years.

Appended is a statement as to the number of Judges and the amount of business from 1890 to 1910.

† An additional Judge in this Division was appointed 23rd October, 1899.

King's Bench Division.—The business of the King's Bench Division has not for some years increased in proportion to the increase in population. As appears by the diagram facing page 32, there was a rise in the writs and proceedings begun in 1892 and 1904 ; but since the latter date the movement has been distinctly downwards. The quinquennial averages show a decline varying from 1·47 to 4·05 per cent.

In 1910 there was again a decline in the writs, &c. issued (61,899 against 62,978) ; the smallest number yet recorded.

There was also a decline in summonses before the Masters and in District Registries (33,258 against 36,105). The summonses under Order XIV were slightly fewer (12,600 against 12,958).

There was a slight decrease in actions set down (3,271 against 3,493). On the other hand, no doubt owing to the increase in the number of Judges of this Division, which took effect in the last half of the year, there was an increase in the actions tried (2,234 against 2,126).

There was a somewhat remarkable increase in trial by jury (1,303 against 771 by judge). In no recent year has the proportion of trial by jury been so high.

The proportions for the last five years have been—

Year.	Number of Actions heard.			Percentage.
	Before juries.	Before Judge without jury.	Total.	Before juries.	Before Judge without jury.
1910	1,303	771	2,074	62·83	37·17
1909	1,059	889	1,948	54·36	45·64
1908	1,119	782	1,901	58·86	41·14
1907	1,075	819	1,894	56·76	43·24
1906	935	836	1,771	52·80	47·20

It is to be observed that in almost all cases in this Division, the parties have a right to trial by jury. Excluding such cases as libel, slander, &c., in which both parties would naturally and generally adopt such a mode of trial, it is often resorted to by defendants whose advisers are apprehensive as to the legal merits of their cases.

As appears from Table XXII, a large proportion of the jury cases come before special juries, to which litigants have a right, subject to the risk of the Judge not giving a certificate. There are no available figures as to the classes of cases brought before such juries; but it is common knowledge that they are very often obtained by defendants in actions between employer and employed or against municipal corporations and railway companies.

Out of 2,234 actions disposed of there was a verdict or judgment for the defendant in only 562, or in about twenty-five per cent. Judged by results, the plaintiff is right in about three out of four instances.

In the Introduction to last year's report a table was given as to the work of the Divisional Courts since 1889. In 1902 an important change of procedure affecting the figures took place; the following table shows the chief business since that date.

Year.	Total Appeals from Inferior Courts argued.	Motions, Special Cases, &c., number heard.		Prerogative Writs applied for.	Number of Bankruptcy Appeals from County Courts disposed of.	Total.
		Before Divisional Court.	Before Single Judge.
1910	336	76	64	49	38	563
1909	292	74	53	62	26	507
1908	301	64	62	74	28	529
1907	328	76	54	86	36	580
1906	335	64	52	139	48	638
1905	290	68	21	111	43	533
1904	313	76	61	86	26	562
1903	312	56	62	53	29	512
1902	251	61	169	86	30	597

An increase in the appeals from inferior Courts is perceptible, the proportion to the total business in 1910 being 60 per cent. as compared with 51 per cent. in the last ten years, but, on the whole, the business appears to be stationary.

As to actions in the King's Bench, it is often alleged that the damages awarded by juries against plaintiffs tend of late to increase, and that this is particularly observable in actions for libel and slander; and some facts mentioned in the Introduction of last year's report (p. 17) seemed to show this to be the case. I have attempted to verify further this statement by taking (a) the amounts recorded generally for the last ten years, and (b) the damages recovered in libel and slander actions for the same period.

Amounts recovered in all Actions.

Year.	London and Middlesex.
	Amount Recovered.	Number of Actions (excluding Actions for Possession, Costs, &c.).	Average amount per Action.
1910	399,236	836	478

1907	1,179,420	772	1,528
1906	284,233	654	435
1905	313,290	693	452
1904	408,142	781	523

1902	486,107	1,110	438
1901	679,955	950	716

These figures do not bear out the above-mentioned allegation; no doubt the averages are disturbed by a few large verdicts; but there is no clear indication of a general rise. In the case of actions for libel, on the other hand, there is an indication of a tendency to give large damages to successful plaintiffs, for instance in 1908 there were two verdicts for amounts exceeding £5,000. The average for 1906–1910 was £598 as against £268 in 1901–1905.

1902	13,424	32	420
1901	9,222	34	271

A somewhat similar increase is observable as to verdicts in actions for slander; the average amount in 1906–1910 being £93 as against £56 in 1901–1905.

1903	1,553	21	74
1902	297	17	17
1901	716	21	34

The average verdicts in such actions have, in round figures, doubled within the last ten years.

Circuits.—On circuit, the cases set down were 822 against 935, the cases tried 646 against 699. This marks a distinct rise as compared with the figures for 1907, when they were only 773 and 580 respectively. But the quinquennial averages show a great decline :

Year.	Average Entered.	Average Tried.
1906–1910	855·0	640·6
1901–1905	1,056·2	792·6
1896–1900	1,083·6	819·6
1891–1895	1,150·6	1,026·4
1886–1890	1,226·4	1,200·2

It would thus appear that the average actions tried on circuit in 1906–1910 were little more than half as many as in 1886–1890.

I give, as usual, a list of the 40 assize towns at which no more than five actions were tried in 1910, the list showing also the numbers tried at the same towns in each of the preceding four years.

Probate, Divorce, and Admiralty Division.—There was a slight increase in the number of writs of summons in the Probate Division (237 against 215), and in the actions entered (116 against 102), and in actions tried (119 against 99). But, as usual, the litigation relative to wills or administrations was singularly small, in view of the amount of property disposed of by will or succession and the number of grants of letters of administration ; the total of probates and letters of administration being no fewer than 67,865. Though it is impossible to prove statistically —questions as to inheritance being occasionally raised indirectly in other Courts than the Probate—there can be little doubt that litigation as to wills counts for less than it did. In the Introduction to the Statistics for 1909 (page 17) it was stated that from "the figures as to trials for the last 10 years . . . . . it appears that only about one case in 500 gives rise to actual litigation ;" and this appears still to hold good.

There was again a decline in the number of petitions for divorce, which were 755 as against 787. The decrees for dissolution of marriage were also fewer—588 as against 685—so, too, were the total matrimonial suits disposed of—756 against 822. The total petitions by wives were (as is always the case) more than those by husbands—481 against 427. But, as uniformly happens in England, the petitions for dissolution of marriage by wives were fewer than by husbands; the respective numbers being 343 against 412. The petitions for judicial separation by wives were, as always, much in excess of those by men—57 against 1. So, too, as is always the case, the petitions for restitution of conjugal rights far exceeded such applications by husbands—67 against 2. The object in the great majority of such applications is to found a case for desertion, with a view to a petition for dissolution of marriage.

I give a table similar to that found in the Introduction to last year's report of the proportion of petitions per 100,000 of population for the last 10 years. The figures are, on the whole, remarkably steady.

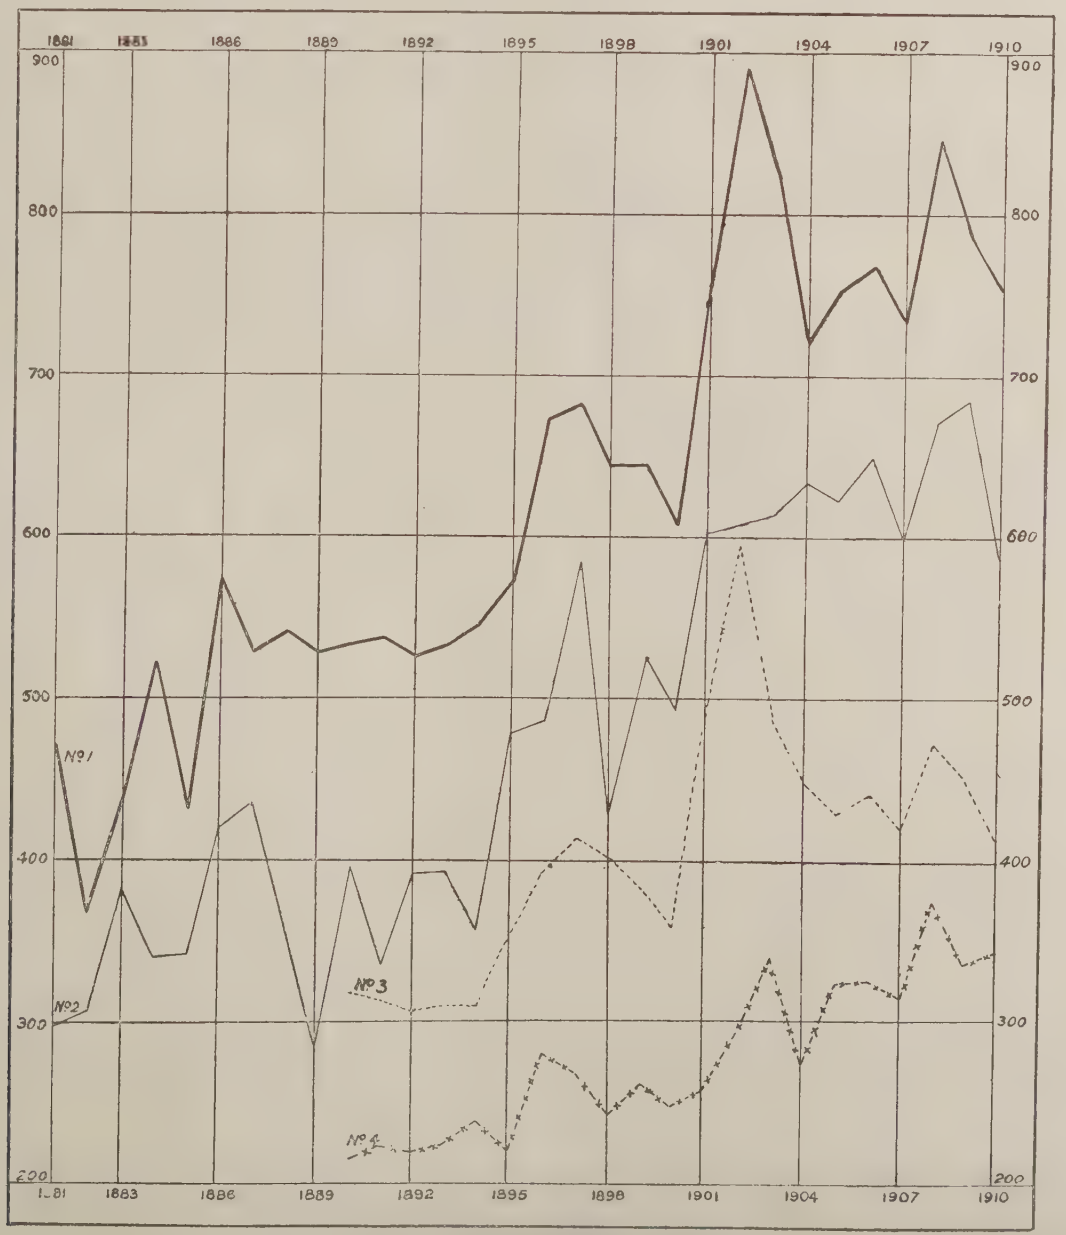
DISSOLUTION OF MARRIAGE 1881 – 1910.



No.1. – Petitions filed for Dissolution of Marriage
No.2. – Decrees Nisi granted.
No.3. – Petitions filed by Husbands.

The extremes in cases of divorce a vinculo were 2·70 per 100,000 of population in 1902, and 2·11 in 1910 ; the averages for 1901–05, and 1906–10, differ only by 0·13 per 100,000 of population. Adding together decrees for dissolution of marriage, decrees of judicial separation and magistrates' orders having the effect of decrees of judicial separation (see below), the proportion per 100,000 was for 1910 15·17 per cent. Taking as a starting point 1907, when the figures for separation orders were specially obtained from Clerks to Justices, there is a decline from 21·85 in that year to 15·17 ; figures which are below those for France and most other countries for decrees of divorce alone.

The accompanying diagram shows the chief variations for a period of 21 years.

I am unable to account for the remarkable rise in 1900–1902 ; but it may be remarked that this synchronised with a rise in some other courts, e.g., County Courts. The maximum, it will be noted, was reached in 1900–1903.

One table shows the decrees for dissolution of marriage and judicial separation, and orders by magistrates having the effect of decrees of judicial separation, for 10 years :—

* Summary Jurisdiction (Married Women) Act, 1895 (Sec. 5) and Licensing Act, 1902 (Sec. 5).

It will be noted that the fall in the number of separation orders granted, due to the decision of the Court of Appeal in Harriman v. Harriman [1909] P. 123 still continues. They fell in 1910 to 4,819, much the lowest figure yet recorded.

I continue the tables given in previous Introductions as to facts of importance relating to the duration of marriages, the subject matter of petitions, the age of the parties, etc. The first table brings out the fact, previously noticed, that more than 40 per cent. of the marriages dissolved had lasted from 10 to 20 years, over 30 per cent. between 5 and 10 years.

The great preponderance of the proportion of marriages between 10 and 20 years (40·64 in 1910 and 41·54 in 1901–1910) will be observed. Unfortunately no figures are available as to the subsisting marriages of this duration. From returns made under the last Census information as to this point is likely to be obtained in future.

The next table shows the age of the parties at the date of marriage. While only 5·60 per cent. of the husbands were under 21, no fewer than 27·05 of the wives were minors.

The large proportion (considering their number in the population) of widowers or widows will be noted, the former being the more numerous.

As to the next table showing the occupations of husbands in matrimonial suits, it may be pointed out that the proportion of those engaged in agriculture (2·12 in 1906–10), in mining (1·59), and in domestic service (1·33) was remarkably small, and that the chief entries are under the heads of trade, professional employment, or manufacture.

An examination of this table would seem to show that the petitioners for the most part belong to the middle classes. A careful detailed examination has been made of the occupation of each husband, with a view to finding out, if possible, the number of petitions presented by persons apparently belonging to the working classes at the date of marriage. The following table is the result of such examination, but it is needless to say that it may be in some details inaccurate ; the descriptions are often ambiguous or may be misleading.

In mining, manufactures, navigation, inland transport, and domestic service the majority of petitions were presented by husbands ; whereas, in agriculture, trade and professional employment, the female petitioners were in the majority.

The last of this series of tables shows the number of children of the marriages at the date of petition.

Here, as in previous years, the large proportion (45·37 in 1910 and 39·83 in 1901–1910) of cases in which there were no children is discernable. So, also, is the small proportion of cases in which there were more than six children (0·99 in 1910 and 1·63 in 1901–1910).

The Admiralty business of the Division has been stationary, as appears by the figures for the last five years :—

Year.	Nature of Proceedings.
	Writs of Summons.	Actions set down.	Actions tried.
1910	585	554	319
1909	585	563	313
1908	603	588	345
1907	534	513	319
1906	593	550	302

The writs issued were 585, the same as in 1909. The actions set down were 554 as against 563 in 1909, and actions tried 319 as against 313.

County Courts.

There was a reduction in the plaints entered in the County Courts (1,330,315 against 1,368,110); a reduction which extended to plaints not exceeding £20, above £50 but not exceeding £100, and above £100. There was also a reduction in the amount for which plaints were entered (£3,925,016 against £4,038,174). It may be added that about one-fifth of the summonses were default summonses, i.e., summonses to which the plaintiff is entitled to judgment unless the defendant gives notice to defend to the Registrar of the Court.

There was also a reduction in the cases determined on hearing (451,210 against 458,250). Of these about one-twelfth came before a judge (36,190 against 38,710); the rest were disposed of by the registrars. As usual, in only an insignificant proportion of the cases was there judgment for the defendant; a vast number of the plaints were issued in mere debt collecting cases in which there was and could be no defence.

Somewhat remarkable is the decline in the number of cases tried by a jury. They fell from 889 in 1904–1905 to 746 in 1909–1910.

The plaints in Equity cases, always few, showed a decrease (435 against 506).

There was also a slight decrease in actions remitted from the high Court under Sections 65 and 66 of the County Court Act, 1888. On the other hand, there was a decided increase in the number under the Workmen's Compensation Acts, the figures for the last three years being :—

——	1910.	1909.	1908.
Requests for Arbitration filed.	6,815	6,509	6,124
Memoranda of Agreement registered.	21,101	18,763	22,125
Total Proceedings ...	27,916	25,272	28,249
Compensation awarded or agreed :—
Number of Cases	16,333	15,357	20,852
Amount of Lump Sum Payments.	£712,610	£585,147	£643,446
Amount of Weekly Payments.	£5,139	£4,592	£4,819

The number of orders of commitment made and of warrants issued was considerably greater than last year (202,098 against 193,950 and 140,991 against 136,979); but the debtors imprisoned were somewhat fewer (8,198 against 8,919). The number is, however, far in excess of the number in earlier years; for example in 1885–1889 and 1890–94, the averages were respectively 5,865 and 6,777.

It is sometimes alleged that the proportion of actual imprisonments to commitment orders tends to diminish. This statement is to a slight extent borne out by the following figures :

Commitments, &c., in County Courts.

Year.	Orders of Commitment made.	Debtors Imprisoned.	Percentage of Debtors Imprisoned.
1910	202,098	8,198	4·06
1909	193,950	8,919	4·60
1908	195,983	9,157	4·67
1907	201,305	9,235	4·59
1906	217,889	12,014	5·51
1905	216,523	11,427	5·28
1904	195,013	11,096	5·69
1903	197,418	10,544	5·34
1902	192,331	9,530	4·95
1901	179,045	8,494	4·74

On the whole, the chief results shown by the returns are these :—

Decrease in total proceedings begun or heard, absolutely and relatively to population; this decrease extending to almost all the Courts, including the County Courts; the shrinkage particularly observable in the Chancery Division.

Notes to the Comparative Tables.

NOTES TO TABLES A TO F.

(1.) These tables are compiled from the previous volumes of Judicial Statistics, supplemented by particulars obtained from the annual returns presented to Parliament relative to County Courts, Bankruptcy, Companies Winding Up, &c., and occasional returns as to Divorce and other matters.

(2.) With a few exceptions the figures for the High Court prior to 1894 are for years ended 31st October, and the figures for other courts, &c., are for calendar years.

(3.) Percentages are expressed to the nearest decimal figure, and amounts are stated to the nearest £. In cases in which the figures for the whole of a quinquennial period are not obtainable, the annual average for the number of years for which figures are available is inserted.

(4.) The nature of the proceedings included under the condensed headings of the comparative tables can in many instances be ascertained by referring to the corresponding annual table.

NOTES TO TABLE A.

(5.) The King's Bench figures for 1896 to 1910 include certain originating proceedings not previously furnished.

(6.) For years previous to 1895 all proceedings begun in District Registries, except Chancery proceedings at Liverpool and Manchester, are included in the figures for the King's Bench Division. Since 1895 information as to the Chancery, King's Bench, and Admiralty proceedings has been furnished separately for all District Registries.

NOTES TO TABLE B.

(7.) Central Office and District Registries.—The Central Office was established as from 28th October, 1879, by Section 4 of the Judicature Act, 1879. The statistics of proceedings commenced in the Central Office include petitions presented at the office of the Chancery Registrars. District Registries were instituted in 1876 by Section 60 of the Judicature Act, 1873, but proceedings relating to the Chancery Division were not separately distinguished in the returns furnished by the District Registrars prior to 1895, and the figures for originating proceedings in District Registries shown in the table from 1888 to 1894 consist only of proceedings commenced in the Liverpool and Manchester District Registries. The figures under certain other headings for the period from 1886 to 1894 include a small proportion of proceedings in the Liverpool and Manchester District Registries. Since 1894 proceedings in all District Registries are included.

(8.) Complete information as to Writs of Execution has been furnished only since 1894.

(9.) Suitors' Funds Accounts.—The funds for all divisions of the Supreme Court were transferred to the Paymaster-General, for and on behalf of the Supreme Court, by the Act 46 & 47 Vict. c. 29, s. 2.

NOTES TO TABLE C.

(10.) The figures for years previous to 1895 include a small proportion of cases belonging to other Divisions of the High Court.

(11.) Previous to 1894 the statistics relating to Official Referees include references of all descriptions. (See Table LVI (a)). From 1894 the figures include only references of the whole cause or matter. (Table LVI (a) Col. 8.)

(12.) Actions tried or otherwise disposed of—The results shown in the annual tables have been classified as follows :—

"Verdict or judgment for plaintiff" includes verdict for plaintiff, verdict for plaintiff subject to special case, and verdict by consent with reference.

"Verdict or judgment for defendant" includes verdict for defendant, and judgment dismissing action.

"Otherwise disposed of" (London and Middlesex) includes referred, jury discharged without verdict, juror withdrawn, judgment on non-suit, referred to official referee, and otherwise disposed of.

(On Circuit) includes in years previous to 1894 the remainder of the actions excluding remanets and cases in which the venue was changed : the actions disposed of otherwise than in court not being separately distinguished.

(Before Official Referees) includes in years previous to 1894 the remainder of the actions disposed of.

(13.) Complete information as to "Other Writs" has been furnished only since 1895.

NOTE TO TABLE D.

(14) The first part of this table, to "Fees—Amount received" inclusive, contains a summary of proceedings in the Divorce Court, compiled from returns furnished by the Divorce Registry for insertion in the annual volumes of Judicial Statistics, and shows the number of decrees and other proceedings in each year irrespective of the years in which the petitions were presented. The Figures are for the calendar year, with this exception, the figures from 1887 to 1893 are for the year ended on 31st October. The second part of the table for years previous to 1895 was mainly compiled from three Parliamentary Returns [House of Commons 1889 (90), 1894 (67), and 1896 (378)], and shows the results of the petitions presented in each year ended 31st December for dissolution of marriage or for judicial separation whether the cause is terminated in the same year or not. The columns for 1895 to 1907 show the number of decrees, &c., made in those years without regard to the year in which the petitions were presented. Besides the variations in years previous to 1895 between the figures of the two portions of the table, due to the different principles upon which the returns were compiled, there are some discrepancies in the number of petitions, &c., which cannot now be explained.

Note.—Tables XXII to XXIV include Actions for Trial in London and Middlesex, on Circuit, and before the Official Referees.

NOTE TO TABLE XXI.

(a) Orders in Chambers.—A large proportion of the orders made in chambers were never drawn up, and consequently, as to these, no returns can be given. From this cause there would naturally appear a large difference between the total numbers of summonses and orders, were it not for the orders made on ex parte applications, as to which no summonses are issued.

Orders "varied" and "reversed" are nearly always drawn up. On the other hand a large proportion of the orders "affirmed" are not drawn up. This greatly affects the figures as to the "results of appeals."

NOTE TO TABLES XXII, XXV (c) AND XXVI (c).

(b.) Actions undefended.—This includes cases in which the defendant does not appear and in which judgment is given against him in consequence, but not cases in which judgment or verdict is given by consent after the case has been opened in court, nor cases in which the defendant appears but not the plaintiff.

NOTES TO TABLES XXIII, XXIV, XXV (a) and (b), XXVI (a) and (b) AND LVI (a), (b), (c) and (d).

(c.) Nature of Action.—An action in which two or more causes of action are joined is counted as a single action. The entry is made against the cause of action in respect of which the proceedings reach the furthest stage, or, if there is no difference in this respect, against the most important of the causes of action.

(d.) Referred to Official or Special Referee.—This includes only references of the whole cause or action, not references for report to the judge. Cases referred for report, and cases adjourned for further consideration, are entered according to the final result of the case, if known.

NOTES TO TABLES XXIV, XXV (b), XXVI (b) and (d) AND LVI (c) and (d).

(e.) Amount recovered.—The amount recovered includes counterclaims. In cases in which money is recovered on both claim and counterclaim, and in cases of account, the balance only is inserted. The amount recovered is no certain criterion of the importance of the actions tried, inasmuch as in many of the most important actions, such as trespass to land, rights of way, &c., and also test actions involving the disposal of very large sums, only nominal damages are recovered.

(f.) Judgments, &c., for Possession, Costs, &c.—This column includes cases in which the plaintiff recovers costs only, and also judgments for plaintiff in cases in which the judgment is not for a specified sum.

NOTES TO TABLE XXVI (d).

(g.) Commission days.—Exclusive of Commission days on which actions or prisoners were tried at some other assize town. Under ordinary circumstances the Commission Day is occupied by travelling and preparatory business, the Commission being opened on the day following, but very frequently Commission days are utilized for the completion of the business at the preceding or some other assize town. At Oakham and Beaumaris, on account of the small amount of business to be transacted, the Commission is opened and actions and prisoners tried on the Commission Day.

(h.) Number of days Judges sat.—If two or more courts are sitting on the same day, each sitting is entered as a separate day. Days on which both civil and criminal causes are tried are counted as two separate days in columns 18 and 19, but as only one day in column 20.

[c] The Masters are very frequently attended on adjourned summonses, and without summons or notice.
[d] The investment of cash is provided for, in most cases, by Rules and Special Orders, and consequently certificates from the Masters for that purpose are now rarely required.
[e] The amounts of cash directed to be paid, &c., under Orders do not include balances paid in by committees, payments by debtors, purchasers, &c., payments out of dividends to committees, nor payments of costs. The amounts in these cases are not specified in the Orders but have to be subsequently ascertained by certificate or verified by affidavit.
[f] The numbers and amounts of committees' and receivers' accounts are exclusive of cases in which the Masters have been satisfied, without the production of accounts and affidavits, of the due application of the lunatics' incomes.
[g] Orders have been made under Section 116 of the Lunacy Act, 1890, in many Lunacies under previous Acts which are now included in the matters under that Section. There are, however, patients under these Acts as to whom no such Orders have been made, but in the absence of any record in the Masters' Office, it cannot, without much labour and delay, be ascertained how many are still alive. The figures given previously to 1896 had reference only to the cases in which periodical accounts and enquiries were directed by the Lords Justices.

TABLE LXII.—RAILWAY AND CANAL COMMISSION.—Applications and other Proceedings.

NOTES TO TABLE LXII.

This table includes cases arising in Scotland.

The applications heard and determined and "otherwise disposed of" in 1910 include remanets from preceding years brought before the Commissioners in 1910.

The number of cases "pending at the end of the year" includes only cases pending where the application has been made in 1910, and does not include cases now pending which were commenced prior to 1910.

As to appeals to the Court of Appeal, see Table VII, page 41.

Costs.—The power of the Commissioners to award costs is now limited by s. 2 of the Railway and Canal Traffic Act, 1894, which enacts that "in proceedings before the Railway and Canal Commissioners, other than disputes between two or more companies, the Commissioners shall not have power to award costs on either side, unless they are of opinion that either the claim or the defence has been frivolous or vexatious."

NOTE TO TABLES LXIX AND LXXVI.

(a.) Admiralty Jurisdiction.—Admiralty jurisdiction has been conferred on forty-two county courts (and the City of London Court) by Order in Council under 31 & 32 Vict. cap. 71.

NOTE TO TABLES LXXIII AND LXXVI.

(b.) Bankruptcy Jurisdiction.—One hundred and thirty-four county courts have jurisdiction in Bankruptcy. Circuits Nos. 40 to 44 and the City of London Court have no jurisdiction in bankruptcy. They are comprised within the district of the London Bankruptcy Court, the jurisdiction of which was transferred to the High Court by s. 16 of the Judicature Act, 1873.

NOTES TO TABLE LXXVI.

(c.) Circuits.—Circuits Nos. 10, 23, 34, 39, 46, and 56, have been absorbed in adjoining circuits and the number of existing circuits is 53. Courts are held at 562 places, including the City of London Court. Circuits Nos. 6, 7, 14, 21, 25, and 38, which comprise Liverpool, Salford, Leeds, Birmingham, parts of Stafford and Essex, have two judges each.

(d.) City of London Court.—By 30 & 31 Vict. c. 142, which came into operation on the 1st January, 1868, the Sheriffs' Court of London was, under the title of the City of London Court, assimilated to the county courts. The proceedings in this court are therefore included in the County Courts Tables.

[a] Of claims for compensation for non-fatal cases under the Workmen's Compensation Acts settled by agreement or by informal arbitration there is no record, except where one or other of the parties or the Arbitrator registers in the County Court a memorandum of the agreement or decision. This is provided for in Schedule II (8) of the Act of 1897 and in Schedule II (9) of the Act of 1906, but it is not compulsory. The statistics of agreements and of informal arbitrations are therefore incomplete; they represent, indeed, only a very small fraction of the cases so dealt with.
[b] Including 55 cases in which 1*d.* per week was awarded, and one case in which the award was for payment of 1*d.* per month.
[c] Including only the costs (including Court fees) of successful parties, whether taxed, or allowed by the Judge at a fixed sum or agreed amounts specified in the award or judgment.
[d] Including 36 cases in which the amount was 1*d.* per week.
[e] Including 14 cases stated to have been dealt with under Section 1 (4) of the Workmen's Compensation Act.

TABLE LXXXVI.—PROCEEDINGS IN THE LAND REGISTRY.

(a) MIDDLESEX DEEDS REGISTRY.

The following statements have been furnished by the Registrar of the Land Registry :—

"The Middlesex Registry was established by an Act of Queen Anne in 1709 (7 Anne, c. 20), for the purpose of preventing fraud by the suppression of deeds.

In 1703, 1707, and 1735, similar Acts were passed applying to the West, East, and North Ridings of Yorkshire respectively. In 1739 and 1740, Bills for the general registration of deeds were passed by the House of Commons and by the House of Lords respectively, but went no further, owing to prorogations of Parliament. The Real Property Commissioners of 1830 unanimously reported in favour of general registration. The Registration and Conveyancing Commission of 1850 reported in favour of a general register of assurances. Since that time the superior advantages of registration of title have prevented any great interest being taken in the subject of deed registration, though the Select Committee of the House of Commons on Land Titles and Transfer recommended, amongst other things, general registries of deeds. (See p. xiv. of their Report of 29th June 1879.) That the deed registries have effected their primary object of suppressing fraud is clear from general experience, and from the evidence and report of the last-mentioned Select Committee, who state it as a 'noteworthy fact that all the recent perpetrators of land frauds have selected for their operations Counties and Districts where no Registry exists.' (Report, p. ix.)

The administration of the Middlesex Registry was entrusted, under the Act of Queen Anne, to four Registrars, who divided the fees taken after paying the expenses of the Office. Owing to the growth of London, this surplus revenue had in late times amounted to several thousand pounds a year, and the registrarships were practically sinecures. Many years ago an arrangement was made for not filling up vacancies in these offices, and on the death of Lord Truro, the last of the Registrars, in 1891, an Act was passed—Land Registry (Middlesex Deeds) Act, 1891, (54 and 55 Vict., c. 64)—for incorporating the office with the Land Registry. The business is now carried on at the Land Registry, Lincoln's Inn Fields."

The following Table shows the nature and amount of the work done under the regulations which came into force on the 1st of April 1892 :—

THE RIGHT HONOURABLE REGINALD McKENNA, M.P.,

HIS MAJESTY'S PRINCIPAL SECRETARY OF STATE FOR THE HOME DEPARTMENT.

SIR,

I HAVE the honour to submit Part I of the Judicial Statistics for the year 1911, containing the statistics relating to crime and criminal proceedings.

It has not this year been necessary to introduce any change in the Tables, and they appear in the same form as in the Statistics for 1910.

The Introduction, which summarizes the principal figures for the year and compares them with those of recent years, has been prepared by Mr. W. J. Farrant, Superintendent of the Statistical Branch.

I am,

Sir,

Your obedient Servant,

EDWARD TROUP.

INTRODUCTION

CRIMINAL STATISTICS

For the Year 1911.

INTRODUCTION TO THE CRIMINAL STATISTICS FOR THE YEAR 1911.

Statistics of Criminal Courts.

The first and most important tables in the Criminal Statistics are those which deal with the numbers of offenders tried by the criminal courts, and with the number and nature of the offences of which they are accused.

Assizes and Quarter Sessions.—The number of persons who were brought up for trial before the superior criminal courts during the year 1911 was 12,951, as compared with 13,680 in 1910 and an annual average of 13,381 during the five years from 1906 to 1910. The following statement shows the totals for the last eleven years and the distribution of business between Assizes and Quarter Sessions.

Year.	Assizes.	Quarter Sessions.	Total.*
1901	3,348	7,445	10,797
1902	3,620	7,769	11,392
1903	3,583	8,295	11,882
1904	3,559	8,597	12,158
1905	3,682	8,640	12,325
Annual Average 1901–5 ...	3,558	8,149	11,711
1906	3,835	8,921	12,757
1907	3,769	8,828	12,599
1908	4,168	9,954	14,122
1909	3,917	9,832	13,749
1910	4,053	9,626	13,680
Annual Average 1906–10 ...	3,948	9,432	13,381
1911	4,105	8,838	12,951

Nearly all the offences against the person, except the relatively less serious cases of malicious wounding, assault, cruelty to children, and indecent assault, are dealt with at Assizes. On the other hand, the bulk of the offences against property, including most of the offences committed by habitual criminals, come before Courts of Quarter Sessions, the chief exceptions being cases of arson, forgery, coining, perjury, libel, and complicated cases of commercial fraud.

State of Crime in 1911.—The actual number of crimes of various descriptions committed in each year is necessarily unknown, and in drawing conclusions as to the increase or decrease of crime from such statistics as are available allowance must be made for many influences which affect the figures for this purpose. The number of persons tried for indictable offences has been found to be, on the whole, the best criterion of the amount of criminality†.

* The totals include a few cases tried in the King's Bench Division of the High Court of Justice and one trial of a peer in the House of Lords.

† Less value, for this purpose, is attached to the statistics of crimes known to the police, but as regards general increase and decrease of crime they confirm the conclusions to be drawn from the statistics of persons tried: they are of no value for purposes of local comparison. Owing to changes in procedure and practice no trustworthy conclusions as to the progress of crime can be based upon the figures of persons convicted or of persons imprisoned.

The persons tried for indictable offences at Assizes and Quarter Sessions comprise only about one-fifth of the total, the remainder of the accused persons being dealt with by the Courts of Summary Jurisdiction. In estimating the total of crime it is therefore necessary to add together the figures for both superior and inferior courts, and it will be convenient to refer briefly to the combined figures here.

The total number of persons tried* for indictable offences in 1911 was 62,318, a decrease of 4,071 or 6 per cent. as compared with the previous year. But the figures for the three years 1908 to 1910 were abnormally high: in 1908 the total rose from 61,381 to 68,116, an increase of 11 per cent., and these high figures were fairly maintained in 1909 and 1910 (67,150 and 66,389 respectively); so that the fall in 1911 may perhaps be regarded as merely a return to a normal level. With two exceptions, the figures for 1911 are still higher than in any year prior to 1908—before that year the total had only twice exceeded 62,000, viz., 62,380 in 1868 and 63,268 in 1882—but in proportion to population the figures have reached the lowest level recorded, except during the period from 1895 to 1901 and the year 1906.

This appears from the following table which shows in a concise form the progress of crime during the fifty-five years for which the statistics have been collected.

Offences against the person rose from 2,751 in 1910 to 2,942 in 1911; offences against property fell from 62,702 to 58,481; the miscellaneous offences making up Class VI of the list of crimes dropped from 936 to 895.

As regards offences against the person, crimes of violence showed an increase of 188 (1,316 to 1,502). The principal headings under which increases occurred were:—

Manslaughter	from 105	to 137
Endangering railway passengers.	„ 81	„ 122
Malicious wounding (misdemeanours).	„ 555	„ 608
Intimidation and molestation.	„ —	„ 33

* The figures include also a small number of persons brought up for trial but not actually tried (see page 10).

It is probable that part at least of the increases under these heads were connected with the disturbances arising from the widespread labour strikes which prevailed during 1911. This opinion is strengthened by the fact that assaults tried summarily, after diminishing through a very long period, rose from 42,647 to 44,778, that cases of intimidation disposed of in the same manner increased from 86 to 192, and that orders to find sureties to keep the peace rose from 14,963 to 16,147.

The figures for the total of sexual offences remained practically unchanged (from 1,435 to 1,440), but under this head there has been a decrease of prosecutions for unnatural offences and rape and a rise in the figures for indecent assaults on females from 669 to 780. The latter change is however mainly a consequence of the extension, by section 128 of the Children Act, 1908, of the powers of justices for dealing summarily with cases of indecent assault; the figures under that heading include a number of cases which would formerly have been reduced to charges of common assault in order to enable the justices to dispose of the cases summarily. In consequence of this change, the number of persons returned as tried summarily for indecent assaults rose from 37 in 1908 to 232 in 1909, to 415 in 1910 and to 543 in 1911.

Although the numbers of persons tried in 1910 and 1911 for the offence of procuration are small (25 and 18 respectively) they show an increase as compared with previous years, the quinquennial averages for the periods 1895–9, 1900–4, and 1905–9 being only 6, 9, and 8. The rise in the figures may possibly be due more to the successful detection of crimes of this class than to their actual increase.

It may be mentioned that the increase in the figures for this offence is concurrent with a falling off in the cases of brothel keeping, which have gradually diminished from 1,627 in 1904 to 1,050 in 1911. The number of persons prosecuted for living on prostitute's earnings has also decreased from 495 in 1909 and 470 in 1910 to 451 in 1911, but the highest number in any previous year was 381 in 1899, the first complete year in which the Vagrancy Act, 1898, was in operation.

There is a decrease under most headings for offences of dishonesty, the principal exceptions being sacrilege and burglary, which, however, are balanced by a large falling off in housebreaking.

In recent years it has been the practice to extend the inquiry into the progress of crime to such of the non-indictable offences as are criminal in character.* The number of these offences for each of the last ten years, together with the figures for indictable offences, and the totals for both classes of offences, were :—

Year.	Indictable Offences.	Non-indictable Offences of a Criminal Character.	Total of both classes.
1902	57,068	95,333	152,401

It will be seen that the increase of the figures for crimes which took place four years ago did not extend to the less serious offences of a criminal nature which are classed as non-indictable offences. The continuous decrease in the latter offences has chiefly occurred under the heading of assaults, the quinquennial averages for common assault for 1893–6 (four years), 1897–1901, 1902–6, and 1907–11 being 58,690, 55,359, 44,001 and 35,975 respectively.

To return to the proceedings in Courts of Assize and Quarter Sessions—the results of the cases may be briefly stated as follows :—of the 12,951 persons who were brought up for trial, 253 were not actually tried, in 10 cases the prosecution was not proceeded with, in 217 the Grand Jury returned "no bill" and the proceedings thereupon came to an end, and in 26 cases the jury found that the accused was insane and unfit to plead. There remain 12,698 persons actually tried, of whom 2,015 were acquitted, and 10,646 convicted, while 37 persons were found "guilty but insane" and were ordered to be detained during His Majesty's pleasure. Thirty-one of the persons found "guilty but insane" were charged with offences against the person, including 17 persons indicted for murder.

Excluding persons who were not actually tried, the proportion of convictions was 83·84 per cent. Formerly the proportion tended to increase slightly, but is now nearly stationary.

Fifty-seven persons were sentenced to preventive detention. The offences, on conviction of which this sentence was passed, were housebreaking and similar offences (27), robbery (4), larceny, fraud, and receiving (14), arson (1), forgery and uttering (3), and coining and uttering counterfeit coin (8).

Of the 10,646 persons convicted, 7,474 had previous convictions recorded against them. During the past 11 years the proportion of convicted persons recognized as having previous convictions has risen from 60 per cent. to 70 per cent. This change is probably the combined results of improved methods of identification on the one hand, and, on the other, of the increasing extent to which youthful and first offenders are dealt with summarily.

* In the Introduction for 1898 (Criminal Statistics, 1898, page 22), the following non-indictable offences were selected as being of a criminal nature, viz.: (1) assaults, including aggravated assaults, assaults on constables, and common assaults; (2) brothel keeping; (3) cruelty to children; (4) malicious damage to animals, fences, trees, shrubs, fruits, &c.; (5) unlawful pledging; (6) unlawful possession; (7) stealing workhouse clothes; (8) offences under the Prevention of Crimes Acts; (9) stealing animals, fences, trees, shrubs, fruit, &c., and receiving such things when stolen; and (10) certain offences under the Vagrancy Acts, viz., frequenting, being found in inclosed premises, and being found in possession of picklocks.

The remaining non-indictable offences, though technically criminal, cannot be regarded as criminal in the most serious sense of the term. They consist mainly of contraventions of municipal regulations established in the interests of public safety, health, and comfort, and not involving violence, or cruelty, or gross dishonesty.

Court of Criminal Appeal.—There were 623 applications for leave to appeal: leave was granted in 109 cases. In addition there were 41 appeals on grounds involving questions of law, eleven with the certificate of the Judge at Trial, and four appeals against sentences of preventive detention, making a total of 165 appeals for hearing.

In 104 cases the conviction or sentence was affirmed, in 60 cases the conviction or sentence was quashed (conviction for another offence, or some other sentence, being substituted in 35 cases), and one appeal was abandoned.

In the following statement the figures for the four years during which the court has been in operation are compared :—

Year.	Applications for Leave to Appeal.		Appeals.
				Results.
	Number of Applications.	Applications granted.	Total Number.	Appeal abandoned.	Appeal dismissed.	Conviction or sentence altered.	Appellant discharged.

1910	584	140	262	8	171	44	39
1911	623	109	165	1	104	35	25

Only about 6 per cent. of the persons convicted on indictment in 1911 sought to have their cases reviewed, and only one in 27 of the persons who invoked the intervention of the Court of Criminal Appeal obtained immediate discharge.

Out of the thirty-one persons sentenced to death, eleven petitioned for leave to appeal, and six appealed on grounds involving questions of law. In one case the conviction was quashed: the other appeals were unsuccessful.

Courts of Summary Jurisdiction.—The number of persons tried by Courts of Summary Jurisdiction in 1911 was 684,512, of whom 49,367 were charged with indictable offences and 635,145 with non-indictable offences. The total is 113 less than in the previous year, the decrease in indictable offences already referred to being almost balanced by an increase of 3,229 in non-indictable offences. The figures for the past eleven years are as follows :—

Year.	Indictable Offences tried summarily.	Non-Indictable Offences.	Total.
1901	44,656	736,966	781,622
1902	45,676	730,613	776,289

1911	49,367	635,145	684,512

As previously mentioned, only about one-fifth of the persons charged with indictable offences come before Assizes and Quarter Sessions, the remaining four-fifths being tried before Courts of Summary Jurisdiction.

The non-indictable offences in which the principal increases occurred were Assaults (from 42,647 to 44,778), offences in connection with Motor Cars and Bicycles (from 12,366 to 13,464 and from 9,745 to 10,140 respectively), Drunkenness (from 175,449 to 186,182), offences against Police Regulations (from 94,370 to 97,647), and Sunday Trading (from 6,895 to 7,470), the aggregate increase under these headings being 18,209. On the other hand, there were decreases under the headings of offences in relation to Dogs (from 9,112 to 7,683), Obstructions and Nuisances on Highways (from 22,212 to 20,663), offences against the Poor Laws (from 8,873 to 7,586), Prostitution (from 11,455 to 10,707), offences in relation to Railways (6,496 to 5,534), offences against Revenue Laws (from 21,833 to 17,118), Begging and Sleeping Out (from 43,884 to 41,836), and Gaming (from 24,197 to 22,263). The aggregate decrease under these heads is 14,672.

As above stated, the total number of persons dealt with by Courts of Summary Jurisdiction for all offences, indictable and non-indictable was 684,512, of whom 79,830 were discharged, 76,584 were dealt with without conviction, notwithstanding that the charge was proved, and 528,098 were convicted.

The 76,584 cases where the charges were proved but in which orders were made without conviction, consisted of 52,258 cases in which the charge was dismissed; 12,840 in which recognizances were ordered with or without sureties, under section 1 of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1907; 8,868 cases in which, in addition, probation orders were made under section 2 of the same Act; 2,605 in which children under 14 were committed to industrial schools; and 13 in which children were committed to the custody of relatives, &c.

The 528,098 persons convicted were dealt with as follows :—

Sentenced to :—
Imprisonment	73,150
Detention in Place of Detention... ...	50
Detention in Inebriate Reformatory ...	291
Detention in Reformatory School ...	1,118
Receive a Whipping	1,632
Pay a Fine (about 81,000 went to prison in default of payment of fines) ...	446,596
Ordered to enter into Recognizances ...	3,206
Otherwise disposed of	2,055

As regards proceedings not strictly criminal in character, Courts of Summary Jurisdiction made 16,147 orders for sureties to keep the peace or to be of good behaviour, 6,626 orders for the maintenance of illegitimate children, 7,468 orders for the maintenance of wives, 2,691 orders for the maintenance of children in reformatory and industrial schools, &c., and 3,185 orders under the Poor Law Acts for the maintenance of families, relatives, &c. Orders were made for the payment of wages in 3,368 cases, for dealing with nuisances under the Public Health Acts in 2,178 cases, and for possession of small tenements in 16,832 cases.

The number of appeals against convictions by Courts of Summary Jurisdiction was 104. No less than 38 appeals, over one-third of the total, were in relation to offences against the law as to intoxicating liquors, including 12 appeals against convictions for allowing drunkenness on licensed premises. In 70 cases the conviction was affirmed (with modification of sentence in 30 cases); in 28 cases the conviction was quashed, and in the remaining six cases the appeal was abandoned.

Juvenile Offenders.—Table XVI, which shows the number and offences of youthful offenders dealt with in Juvenile Courts, and the manner in which they were disposed of, furnishes the means of knowing how many youthful offenders are brought before the criminal courts.

Section 111 of the Children Act, 1908, directs that a Court of Summary Jurisdiction, when hearing a charge against a child or young person (i.e., persons aged under 14 years and aged 14 to 16 years respectively) shall take the case in a "Juvenile Court," i.e., either in a different building or room from that in which the Court ordinarily sits, or on a different day or at a different time from the ordinary sittings of the Court. The general public are excluded from a Juvenile Court.

The total number of persons brought before Juvenile Courts in 1911 was 32,977, viz., 16,824 children, 13,650 young persons, and 2,503 persons aged above 16. Deducting the latter persons and adding 929 children and 2,341 young persons who were dealt with by ordinary Courts of Summary Jurisdiction, either because they were charged jointly with adults or because they were supposed to be above 16, we get a total of 33,744 juvenile offenders (17,753 children and 15,991 young persons). This total is less than 5 per cent. of the whole number of persons proceeded against for criminal offences. The total of 33,744 closely approximates to the actual total of Table XVI, and the table may be regarded as a sufficiently accurate record of proceedings against juvenile offenders.

Table XVI confirms the generally received opinion that juvenile delinquency is mainly confined to the male sex. The 32,977 persons brought before juvenile courts included only 1,670 females, or about 5 per cent. Among persons dealt with by ordinary courts of summary jurisdiction the proportion of females is more than 16 per cent., and even if the offences of drunkenness and prostitution (which account for 48,925 or 44 per cent. of the 110,813 adult female defendants) are excluded, the proportion of females among persons charged with other offences is still nearly 13 per cent.

Nearly all the offences committed by juvenile offenders fall under a few headings. As might be expected the offences consist chiefly of petty thefts, acts of mischief, disorderly behaviour, vagrancy (begging, &c.), and gaming in public places. The principal figures are—

Larceny, fraud, and receiving ...	10,747
Other indictable offences	1,270
Assaults	242
Cruelty to animals	233
Education Acts offences	470
Obstruction, &c., of highways ...	2,401
Employment of Children Act offences	537
Malicious damage	4,617
Offences against Police Regulations	6,530
Offences in relation to Railways (? loitering in railway stations).	395
Stealing fruit, plants, &c.	1,313
Begging and sleeping out	798
Gaming, &c.	2,328

which make up no less than 31,881 out of the total of 32,977 juvenile offenders proceeded against. The small number of prosecutions under the headings of "Fishery Laws, Offences against" (15), "Poaching" (41) and "Offences against the Wild Birds Protection Acts" (14), is remarkable.

There is a marked discrimination in favour of the defendant in juvenile cases, as compared with cases of adult offenders. Of the 32,673 persons brought before Juvenile Courts, omitting 304 who were not tried summarily, 4,784 (or 15 per cent.) were acquitted, orders without conviction were made against 14,765 persons (or 45 per cent.) and only 13,124 persons (or 40 per cent.) were convicted. The corresponding figures for ordinary courts of summary jurisdiction were:—total number of defendants 651,839, acquitted 75,046 or 12 per cent., orders without conviction 61,819 or 9 per cent., and convicted 514,974 or 79 per cent.

Of the 14,765 youthful defendants who were found culpable but were not "convicted," 7,987 were dismissed (in some cases being ordered to pay damages or costs), 2,187 were ordered to enter into recognizances, 3,454 were placed under the supervision of probation officers, 1,124 were sent to industrial schools, and 13 were placed in the care of relatives, &c.

Only 67 of the 13,124 juvenile offenders who were convicted were sentenced to imprisonment,* and only 45 to confinement in places of detention: 1,047 were committed to reformatory schools, 1,577 males charged with indictable offences were ordered to be whipped and 10,226 (or 78 per cent. of the number convicted), were sentenced to pay fines. In 1,424 cases the fine was ordered to be paid by the parent or guardian of the defendant.

Probation Orders.—During the year 1911, probation orders were made in respect of 648 persons convicted on indictment, 6,373 persons tried summarily for indictable offences, and 2,495 persons charged with non-indictable offences, the total number being 9,516.

The sexes and ages of the offenders put on probation were:—

Age.	Number.
	Total.	Males.	Females.
Under 12 years	770	716	54
12 to 14 „	1,102	994	108
14 „ 16 „	1,722	1,505	217
16 „ 21 „	2,906	2,271	635
Above 21 „	3,016	1,825	1,191
Total	9,516	7,311	2,205

The numbers of orders made for placing persons under the supervision of probation officers during the four years the Probation of Offenders Act, 1907, has been in operation, were as follows:—

1908	8,023
1909	8,962
1910	10,217
1911	9,516

* Children under 14 may not be sentenced to imprisonment nor committed to prison in default of payment of a fine, damages, or costs. Nor may young persons aged 14 to 16 years be so dealt with, unless the court certifies that the young person is of so unruly a character that he cannot be detained in a place of detention, or that he is of so depraved a character that he is not a fit person to be so detained (Children Act, 1908, sec. 102).

Only 593, or 6 per cent., of the persons against whom Probation Orders were made were called up for sentence during the year. Of this number 137 were discharged, 164 were dealt with for fresh offences, and 292 were sentenced (including 187 sentenced to imprisonment) or otherwise disposed of in connection with their original offence.

Extradition and Fugitive Offenders.

During the year 1911 there were 50 applications for extradition received from foreign Governments, including 19 applications from Germany, and 13 from France. In 26 cases the accused person was extradited. The offences included 18 cases of larceny and embezzlement, 12 cases of fraud or false pretences, and 6 cases of forgery. The applications by the English Government numbered ten, of which four were addressed to the United States and three to France.

Under the Fugitive Offenders Act, three persons were sent back from this country for trial in British Colonies.

Commissions Rogatoires.—The number of Orders made at the request of Foreign Governments under Section 5 of the Extradition Act, 1873, for the taking of evidence for use in criminal proceedings was 33.

Public Prosecutions.

The number of prosecutions undertaken by the Director of Public Prosecutions was 554. There were 120 capital cases, 137 prosecutions for Government Departments, and 273 prosecutions at the instances of judges, magistrates, police, &c. The number of persons prosecuted was 725, of whom 666 were charged with indictable offences, including 142 persons prosecuted for murder, 57 for incest, 105 for other offences against the person, 79 for frauds of various descriptions, 37 for bankruptcy offences, 33 for other offences against property, 185 for offences in connection with the currency, and 28 for other offences and misdemeanours. The remaining 59 persons were prosecuted for various non-indictable offences. Of the 725 persons prosecuted, 476 were convicted, and 17 were found "guilty but insane."

Police Statistics.

Next in importance to the figures showing the action of the Criminal Courts come the figures showing the action of the police in dealing with crime.

Indictable Offences.—The number of indictable offences reported to the police or otherwise coming within their cognizance was 97,171. For these offences 60,375 persons were arrested, while 8,200 were dealt with by way of summons. In the case of offences against the person the number of crimes is very little more than the number of persons apprehended or summoned; 4,185 crimes against the person were reported to the police, and 3,699 persons were either apprehended or summoned. In contrast with this, in offences against property with violence, the number of apprehensions amounts to little more than one-third of the number of crimes; 12,294 crimes of this class were reported, and 4,397 persons were apprehended, only 103 being summoned. It is under the heads of burglary, housebreaking and shopbreaking that the ratio of apprehensions to crimes is lowest; these are emphatically the crimes of the professional criminal, and the comparatively small number of arrests indicates merely that the burglar as a rule commits several burglaries before he is caught. On the other hand, against 198 crimes of robbery with violence reported to the police, we have 234 apprehensions. Under most of the other heads the apprehensions amount to about two-thirds of the crimes reported.

Of the 68,575 persons prosecuted, 11,493 were discharged, including 5,699 who were tried summarily and acquitted; orders were made without conviction in respect of 16,464 persons against whom the charges were proved; 27,204 were tried summarily and convicted; 13,165 were sent for trial at Assizes and Quarter Sessions; and 249 (including 149 persons charged with attempts to commit suicide) were otherwise disposed of, being for the most part bound over to come up for further examination if required, or the proceedings were adjourned sine die.

Bail was allowed in the case of 2,976 or 22·61 per cent. of the 13,165 persons committed for trial. The percentage of persons admitted to bail in each of the preceding 12 years fluctuated between 20·07 and 24·67 per cent.

Non-Indictable Offences.—Of the 641,494 persons charged with non-indictable offences, 289,775 were apprehended and 351,719 proceeded against by summons.

Persons under Police Supervision.—The number of persons who were under the supervision of the police during the year 1911, either as part of a sentence imposed on conviction, or as holders of licences under the Penal Servitude Acts, was 3,724 or, allowing for persons who have resided during the year in two police districts, about 2,416. Nearly half of the supervisees live in London. While 561, or more than 23 per cent., were re-convicted during the year, more than half of the whole number are reported to be living honestly, so far as the police know.

Habitual Criminals and Houses of Bad Character.—The Police estimate that on the first Tuesday in April, 1911, there were 3,770 habitual criminals at large, including 3,180 thieves, 408 receivers, and 182 other criminals. These figures include some, but not all, of the supervisees. The number of houses of bad character was estimated at 1,071, of which 334 were houses of receivers of stolen goods, and 737 were houses frequented by thieves.

Coroners' Inquests.

The tables compiled from the Coroners' returns, though not entirely criminal, are closely connected with the criminal tables, among which they are included. The chief object of the coroner's jury is to determine whether death is or is not due to a criminal act, and if it is found to be so by the verdict of the jury and the suspected person is found, criminal proceedings follow; the inquisition of the coroner being equivalent to an indictment found by a grand jury.

The total number of inquests held was 37,612, as against 35,417 in 1910, and an annual average of 36,512 for the five years 1906 to 1910.

Out of the total number of 37,612 deaths investigated by coroners' juries, 14,702 were found to be due to natural causes, including old age, 15,425 were accidental, 260 were still-births, and in 2,180 cases open verdicts were returned.

There were 3,563 cases of suicide, almost the same number as in the previous year (3,529).

The following statement shows the increase of suicides since 1857, both absolutely and in proportion to the population :—

Years.	Annual Number of Suicides.	Proportion per 100,000 Population.	Years.	Annual Number of Suicides.	Proportion per 100,000 Population.

Verdicts of wilful murder were returned in 156 cases as against 171 in 1910, and an annual average of 163 for the five years 1906 to 1910. In 23 of these cases the inquests were held upon the bodies of newly-born children. In 19 cases the persons against whom verdicts of wilful murder were returned committed suicide at the time of the murder. In addition to the 156 cases of wilful murder there were 92 verdicts of manslaughter, making altogether a total of 248 culpable homicides.

There were 105 verdicts of death from disease and neglect, 196 of death from want, exposure, &c., and 611 of death from excessive drinking. The latter figure is of small statistical value, as alcoholism was probably a contributing cause of death in many cases included in other columns of the table.

Penal Statistics.

Prison Returns.—The returns from the prisons show that the total number of convicted prisoners received into prison during the year 1911 was 159,747, exclusive of 474 prisoners convicted by Courts-Martial. Of this number 8,817 came from Courts of Assize and Quarter Sessions, and 150,930 from Courts of Summary Jurisdiction. There were 31 persons received under sentence of death, and 858 sentences of penal servitude, nearly all the remainder being sentences of imprisonment. The number of convicted prisoners received under sentence of imprisonment without the option of a fine was 77,051, while 81,047 were imprisoned in default of payment of fines, and 139 in default of finding sureties. 107,209 prisoners were sentenced to hard labour, and 51,028 to imprisonment without hard labour.

The Court, on passing a sentence of imprisonment without hard labour, may direct a convicted prisoner to be treated either as an offender of the first division or as an offender of the second division. If no direction is given he is to be treated as an offender of the third division. Forty-seven were ordered to be placed in the first division, and 1,650 in the second.

The number of persons ordered to be placed in the second division has undergone a diminution in the last three years, as appears from the following statement :—

Year.	Total of Persons sentenced to imprisonment.	Number of Persons placed in Division II.	Percentage placed in Division II.
1900	145,534	2,033	1·40
1901	161,876	2,080	1·28
1902	169,922	2,199	1·29
1903	187,541	2,258	1·20
1904	197,336	2,361	1·20
1905	195,133	2,557	1·31
1906	182,645	2,352	1·29
1907	173,499	2,504	1·44
1908	183,446	2,097	1·14
1909	181,695	1,554	0·86
1910	166,591	1,624	0·97
1911	158,237	1,650	1·04

The falling off in the proportion of persons placed in Division II is possibly due to the effect of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1907, and the Children Act, 1908, in enabling the substitution for imprisonment of other methods of dealing with youthful offenders and persons charged with venial or first offences.

Thirty-five per cent. of the sentences of imprisonment were for one week and under, and over 26 per cent. were for more than one week and not more than two, while less than 1·0 per cent. were for periods longer than one year. The number of persons imprisoned in default of payment of fines was little more than 18 per cent. of the number of persons sentenced to pay fines.

The following statement covering the period from 1893 to 1911 shows that the proportion of persons who are imprisoned in default of payment of fines, after rising steadily for a decade, now tends to diminish.

Year.	Number of Persons Sentenced to Pay Fines.	Persons received in Prison in Default of Payment of Fine.	Percentage of Persons Sentenced to Pay Fines who are received in Prison in Default.

No less than 53,785 persons out of a total of 159,747 sent to prison were convicted of drunkenness, 17,496 of simple larceny, 8,828 of other indictable offences, 9,888 were convicted summarily of assaults, 25,492 of begging and sleeping out, 10,631 of offences against police regulations, 7,816 of prostitution and 3,044 of misbehaviour as paupers.

The criminal prisoners received in prison during the year included nearly 17,500 persons received on remand or committal for trial who did not re-appear as convicted prisoners.

There were also 16,895 non-criminal prisoners received, including 865 surety prisoners and 15,939 debtor prisoners. County Court debtors numbered 7,118 and 8,775 debtors were committed by Courts of Summary Jurisdiction, including 2,657 for non-payment of rates and 5,590 for non-payment of maintenance.

Borstal Institutions.—Five hundred and fifteen persons (465 males and 50 females) sentenced by Courts of Assize and Quarter Sessions and Summary Courts to Borstal Detention were admitted into Borstal Institutions. As compared with 1910 there was increase of 64 males and 29 females. Two hundred and twenty were convicted of burglary and similar offences, and 233 of larceny or fraud. The periods of detention ordered were one year, 45 ; more than one year and not more than two, 341 ; more than two years and not more than three, 129. The total included 432 persons who had been previously convicted.

Reformatory Schools.—In 1911, there were 1,181 youthful offenders admitted to reformatory schools, of whom 13 were sent by Courts of Assize and Quarter Sessions, and 1,145 by Courts of Summary Jurisdiction.

Industrial Schools.—The total number of children admitted to ordinary industrial schools was 2,621. Of this number, 720 were charged with crime ; the remainder were mainly children found begging or wandering without a home, or not under parental control or not attending elementary schools.

In addition to the above figures, which relate only to ordinary industrial schools for long terms of detention, 773 boys were sent for briefer periods to " short term " schools, and 593 boys and 363 girls, most of whom were truants, were admitted to day industrial schools.

Places of Detention.—The following table gives the figures for receptions into Places of Detention :—

Criminal Lunatics.—The number of criminal lunatics received into asylums during 1911 was 250, of whom 64 were found insane by verdict of jury, 3 were certified insane while under detention on remand or awaiting trial, and 183 were certified insane while serving sentence in prison. Eighty-five of the criminal lunatics were received into Broadmoor and Parkhurst Criminal Lunatic Asylums ; the remainder, mostly persons serving short sentences who would soon become pauper lunatics, were received into County and Borough Asylums.

The total number of criminal lunatics under detention at the end of the year was 1,119, of whom no less than 478 were accused of or had committed murder ; 426 persons had been detained upwards of 10 years.

Habitual Drunkards.—Three hundred and thirty-nine persons were received into inebriate reformatories, of whom 264 were women. Twenty-nine persons were convicted of indictable offences with habitual drunkenness (in 21 cases the offence was cruelty to children) and the remainder were convicted of habitual drunkenness only. The maximum term of detention of three years was imposed in 234 cases. Five persons were under 21 years of age. Two hundred and eighty-three persons were discharged from inebriate reformatories during the year, of whom 38 were released on licence.

The Prerogative of Mercy.

Out of 31 sentences of death, 13 were commuted to penal servitude for life. Four free pardons were granted ; remissions of various terms of penal servitude and imprisonment and of other punishments were granted to 201 persons ; while 63 convicts were released on licence in special cases at earlier dates than those allowed by the ordinary regulations. The requirement of reporting to the police was remitted in respect of 188 persons under police supervision.

Excluding the last class, the total number of cases in which the prerogative of mercy was exercised was 285. In 89 cases the remission was granted on medical grounds, and in 154 cases on grounds of a personal nature, such as youth or provocation. Only five persons were released on grounds affecting the original conviction.

NOTES TO THE COMPARATIVE TABLES.

These Tables have been compiled from the annual Tables in the previous volumes of Judicial Statistics from 1893 to 1910, and from the Tables for 1911 in the present volume.

The figures are taken from the following Tables :—

Table B, Numbers tried for indictable offences by Courts of Summary Jurisdiction, from Section A of Table XI, column 2.

Table AB, Numbers of all Persons tried for indictable offences, obtained by adding the figures of Tables A and B.

Table C, Numbers tried for non-indictable offences by Courts of Summary Jurisdiction, from Section B of Table XI, column 2.

Table D, Numbers of Crimes known to the Police, from Table XXII, column 2.

In each Table the headings for offences for which there were no figures are omitted.

Tables A to D differ in some respects from the comparative tables given in years prior to 1903. The period of comparison is now limited to the years since 1892, when the statistics were revised ; this enables the comparative figures to be given for each separate heading in the list of offences. Another change is, that the proceedings in Courts of Summary Jurisdiction are now divided into separate tables for indictable offences and non-indictable offences respectively.

Table E shows the average figures, both actual and in proportion to population, (a) of prosecutions for all crimes and offences since the establishment of the Judicial Statistics in 1857, and (b) of the crimes (indictable offences) reported to the police during the same period. The non-indictable offences are in this Table grouped in two divisions—those that are definitely criminal in character, and those which may be regarded as "non-criminal." The division of non-indictable offences into "criminal" and "non-criminal" is discussed at page 22 of the Criminal Statistics for 1898.

In Table E the proportions are calculated on the population for the middle year of each period of years, e.g., those for 1907 to 1911 on the estimated population for 1909, those for 1902 to 1906 on the estimated population for 1904.

NOTES ON CRIMINAL COURTS AND CRIMINAL PROCEDURE.

In England the chief Courts for the trial of criminal cases are the Assizes (including the Central Criminal Court) and the Courts of Quarter Sessions.

The King's Bench Division of the High Court of Justice has also power to try criminal cases. The number so tried is very small, and there were only three cases in 1911.

In certain exceptional cases a Court held under Special Commission tries cases in the same way as a Court of Assize. No instances of this have occurred for several years.

Peers charged with treason or felony have the right to be tried by the House of Lords. One case was so tried in 1901.

Assizes.

The Assizes are the Courts held by His Majesty's Judges, when they go under Royal Commissions on Circuit for the administration of justice. They are held three times a year for each county, in certain cases four times. The Central Criminal Court is a court with similar powers sitting in London, and holding twelve sessions in the year. In law the term "Assizes" includes the sessions of the Central Criminal Court (Interpretation Act, 1889, section 13 (5)); and it is so used in these Statistics.

Quarter Sessions.

A Court of Quarter Sessions exists in each County, and in those Boroughs to which a separate Court has been granted by the Crown. A list of these Courts will be found in Table VII. The Court consists in Counties of the Justices for the County assembled in Quarter Session, in Boroughs of the Recorder of the Borough, a legal officer of high standing. Its sessions are held at least four times a year, sometimes more frequently, e.g., in London there were 24 sittings in the year 1911. The Court has powers co-ordinate with the Assizes, but less extensive ; all cases which can be tried at Quarter Sessions can be tried also at Assizes, but certain offences, such as treason, murder, perjury, libel, can be tried only at Assizes.*

All cases tried at Assizes and Quarter Sessions are tried on an indictment† presented by a Grand Jury, and the trial in every case without exception is by Jury.

Under the provisions of the Criminal Appeal Act, 1907, persons convicted on indictment may (subject to the restrictions and regulations imposed by the Act), appeal against the conviction or sentence to the Court of Criminal Appeal. Statistics of the appeals decided in 1911 are given in Table X.

Courts of Summary Jurisdiction.

The inferior Criminal Courts for the trial of minor cases are the Courts of Summary Jurisdiction or Police Courts. In these trial is without Jury, and the Magistrates decide both as to law and to facts; their decisions are subject in most cases to appeal, though in practice, appeals are rare (Table XV).

A Court of Summary Jurisdiction consists ordinarily of the Justices of a Division of the County or of a Borough sitting in Petty Sessions. In most cases the presence of two Justices at least is necessary for the exercise of the powers of the Court; but in London and large towns there are Stipendiary Magistrates, who sit alone and have all the powers of two Justices. In certain other cases a Court of Summary Jurisdiction may consist of one Justice only, but its powers are then extremely limited.

In addition to hearing and determining all minor criminal cases, the Courts of Summary Jurisdiction conduct the preliminary investigation in those cases which are afterwards tried at Assizes and Quarter Sessions. If they find there is a primâ facie case they commit the accused to prison to await his trial, or bind him over in recognizances (usually with sureties) to appear at the Assizes or Sessions.

Courts of Summary Jurisdiction have also civil jurisdiction in certain matters. They also exercise certain powers in matters not strictly criminal, but closely allied to their criminal jurisdiction, of which particulars are given in Table XIV (Quasi-Criminal Proceedings).

---

* The Liberty of Peterborough has Commissions of Oyer and Terminer and General Gaol Delivery as well as the usual Commission of the Peace, and the Justices can therefore try offences not within the ordinary jurisdiction of Quarter Sessions.

† An inquisition of a Coroner's Jury is equivalent to an indictment, but cases tried on an inquisition are very rare.

‡ All jurisdiction and authority under the Crown Cases Act, 1848, in relation to questions of law, is now vested in the Court of Criminal Appeal (Criminal Appeal Act, 1907, sec. 20 (4)).

Indictable Offences.

As in Courts of Assize and Quarter Sessions the procedure is by indictment, the offences tried by these courts are called "indictable offences." All the ancient Common Law Offences are indictable, and so are all statutory offences unless the statute expressly provides some other mode of trial.

Non-Indictable Offences.

In distinction from these indictable offences, offences originally within the jurisdiction of Courts of Summary Jurisdiction are in these Tables designated "non-indictable." These are all, like the Courts of Summary Jurisdiction themselves, created by statute; and in every case they are expressly declared by the statute to be triable summarily.

Indictable Offences tried Summarily.

In certain cases offences which originally were tried on indictment only may now be tried summarily. This is done under sections 10, 11, 12, and 13 of the Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1879,* which superseded some earlier and more restricted enactments on the same subject. These offences appear in the Tables of the Proceedings of Courts of Summary Jurisdiction in a special section headed "Indictable Offences tried Summarily." In the Police Tables of indictable offences the cases heard summarily are shown in separate columns.

Non-Indictable Offences tried as if Indictable.

On the other hand certain offences ordinarily tried summarily may in exceptional cases be sent for trial at Assizes or Quarter Sessions "as if they were indictable." This class includes Assault (Offences against the Person Act, 1861, sec. 46), all offences, other than assaults, punishable with more than 3 months' imprisonment (Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1879, sec. 17), and some offences created by recent Acts, such as the Conspiracy, and Protection of Property Act, 1875, the Merchandise Marks Act, 1887, the Witnesses (Public Enquiries) Protection Act, 1892, the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1906, &c. These offences being ordinarily tried summarily are not separated from the other non-indictable offences in the Tables of the Proceedings of Courts of Summary Jurisdiction, and in the Tables of Non-indictable Offences; but such cases as are actually sent for trial at Assizes and Quarter Sessions appear under appropriate heads (chiefly Assault, Intimidation, and Cruelty to Children) in the Assize and Quarter Sessions Tables, and in the Police Tables of Indictable Offences.

Proceedings at Assizes and Quarter Sessions.

The following are points which may be useful as explaining the headings of the columns in Tables I to V and VII.

At Assizes and Quarter Sessions the proceedings are commenced by the preferring of a bill of indictment or draft indictment before the Grand Jury. If the Grand Jury think that there is no primâ facie case against the person accused they return the draft indictment marked "no true bill," and the case is at an end. Otherwise they find the indictment or formal accusation on which the prisoner is tried. The prisoner is then arraigned or formally accused before the petty jury; and at this stage the question of the prisoner's sanity at the time of arraignment may be investigated by a jury. If found insane and unfit to plead he is not tried but is ordered to be detained during His Majesty's pleasure. Otherwise he is tried by the Jury.

On trial by Jury three verdicts are possible in ordinary cases: acquittal, conviction, or a special verdict to the effect that the prisoner was guilty of the act charged, but was insane at the time of committing it. If the latter is given, he is ordered to be detained during His Majesty's pleasure. On conviction, the Judge passes sentence, which may be death,† penal servitude, imprisonment, detention in a Borstal Institution (for offenders between 16 and 21 years of age), detention in an Inebriate Reformatory, detention in a Reformatory School (for offenders between 12 and 16 years of age), fine, whipping, or custody in a place of detention (for offenders under 16 years of age); or the Court may order the prisoner to enter into recognizances to come up for judgment when so required, and, in addition, may place the offender under the supervision of a probation officer—an order to this effect being termed a probation order. The Court may also order children under 14 years of age to be detained in an Industrial School.

* Libel may also in certain cases be tried summarily (44 & 45 Vict. c. 60, s. 5). The powers of Courts of Summary Jurisdiction for the trial of indictable offences have been further extended by the Inebriates Act, 1898, the Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1899, and the Children Act, 1908.

† The offences for which judgment of death may be pronounced by civil courts are murder, treason, piracy with violence, and arson of His Majesty's ships, arsenals, dockyards, &c. For the two last-named offences the Court may order the judgment of death to be entered of record, which has the same effect as if the judgment had been duly pronounced and the offender reprieved by the Court.

ASSIZES AND QUARTER SESSIONS.

NOTES.

(a.) The titles of offences (Column 1) are much condensed. The fuller titles, and the offences comprised under each head will be found in Appendix A on page 165.

In Tables III and IV offences not triable at Quarter Sessions are omitted, but the numbering of the heads is the same as in Tables I, II, and V.

(b.) The Tables show the numbers of persons prosecuted, not the number of offences. Where therefore any person is prosecuted at the same Assizes or Sessions for several offences, one offence has to be selected for tabulation : and the rule followed is to select that for which the proceedings were carried to the furthest stage—to trial if there were several indictments, to conviction and sentence if prisoner was tried on several charges. If there are several convictions, the offence selected is that for which the heaviest punishment was awarded. If the final result of proceedings on two or more charges is the same, the more serious offence (as measured by the maximum penalty allowed by the law) appears in the Tables.

(c.) Where, in addition to the offence thus selected for detailed tabulation, the same person is prosecuted for other offences of a distinct character and charged in separate indictments, the number of these additional charges is given in Columns 27 to 29 of Tables I, III, and V ; Column 27 giving the total number of such charges, Column 28 the number resulting in convictions, and Column 29 the number for which separate sentences (not concurrent with those in Columns 11 to 21) are passed. Only distinct offences charged in separate indictments are included in these columns : additional indictments merely varying the form of the charge, and additional charges appearing as counts in the same indictment, are excluded.

An exception is made, however, in the case of a charge under Part II of the Prevention of Crime Act, 1908, or Section 1 of the Inebriates Act, 1898. In the former case, if there is no conviction on the count of being an habitual criminal, or no sentence is passed therefor, no record appears in these statistics ; but if the prisoner is convicted and sentenced on the charge, the sentence of preventive detention appears in column 22 as an additional order made on his conviction of the specific offence which has led to his indictment as an habitual criminal.

In the case of a person convicted and sentenced as an habitual drunkard under Section 1 of the Inebriates Act, 1898, the sentence of detention in an Inebriate Reformatory is given in Column 16, whether it is in substitution for or in addition to a sentence of penal servitude or imprisonment. In the latter case the sentence of penal servitude or imprisonment does not appear in this table, but particulars are given in Table XLIX.

(d.) Where a person is prosecuted for one offence and convicted for another (e.g., committed for murder, and convicted of manslaughter) the case appears only under the offence of which he was convicted.

(e.) All the Tables are for the calendar year ending 31st December, and include only cases finally determined within the year. Cases not entirely disposed of within the year (e.g., tried, but sentence postponed) are held over for the next year's Tables.

When, however, the Epiphany Quarter Sessions commence before the end of the year, any cases disposed of on or before 31st December are included in the Return for the following year, so as to give four quarters uniformly in each year.

Tables I, III, and V.

(f.) Columns 2, 3, and 4 ("Numbers for Trial") include only such cases as actually come before the Assizes or Quarter Sessions. Persons who die, escape from prison, abscond while on bail, or are removed to an asylum before trial are not included.

(g.) Column 14 ("Imprisonment") does not include the sentences of imprisonment which sometimes precede sentences of detention in an Inebriate Reformatory, nor does it include sentences of imprisonment in default of payment of fine or in default of finding sureties.

(h.) Columns 18 and 24 ("Fine") include all cases where payment of a fine is imposed as the sentence or part of the sentence whether the fine is actually paid or not.

(i.) Columns 19, 20, and 26 ("Recognizances"), include cases where recognizances are required whether with or without sureties, and, if sureties are required, whether they are found or not.

(j.) Columns 22 to 26 are for those cases where more than one punishment is imposed for the same offence. Thus, if a young person convicted of larceny is sentenced to be imprisoned and whipped, the imprisonment appears in Column 14, the whipping in Column 25.

(k.) Columns 27 to 29. See note (c) above.

Table VI.

(l.) The counties in this table are, as regards their area and boundaries, the administrative counties ; but Lincoln, Northampton, Cambridge, Suffolk, Sussex, and Southampton are each treated as one county, and county boroughs are included in the counties in which they are situated geographically. York is included wholly in the North Riding of Yorkshire, and Stockport in Cheshire.

Table VII.

(m.) Where several persons are charged with the same offence, this is entered as one case in Column 2, but as several persons in Column 3.

(n.) Where there are several charges against the same person, this is entered as one case in Column 2. In selecting the offences for tabulation and giving the results of proceedings, the same rules are followed as in Tables I, III, and V.

Table VIII.

(o.) In this Table the title of offences which do not occur during the year are omitted, but the numbering is the same as in the preceding Tables. This note applies to Table IX also.

(p.) Children who have not completed their fourteenth year are regarded as under 14, and are entered in Column 5. Column 6 includes all persons who have completed 14 years, but not completed 16 years, and similarly with the other columns.

[a] Hertfordshire has only one Commission of the Peace, but separate Courts of Quarter Sessions are held for the two divisions of the County (37 & 38 Vict. c. 45).
[b] The jurisdiction of the Dover and Sandwich Quarter Sessions extends to such members of these two Cinque Ports as have no separate Courts of Quarter Sessions.
[c] Lancashire was divided for Assize purposes by an Order in Council, dated 4th May, 1864. The Northern Division comprises the Hundreds of Lonsdale, Amounderness, Leyland, and Blackburn, Salford Division comprises Salford Hundred, and West Derby Division comprises West Derby Hundred.

[d] Each of the three Parts of Lincolnshire has a separate Commission of the Peace.
[e] The Central Criminal Court having concurrent jurisdiction with the Court of Quarter Sessions, all criminal cases arising within the City are, as a matter of convenience, tried at the former Court.
[f] This Court is still held, but no prisoners are tried, and the proceedings are purely formal.
[g] The Soke or Liberty of Peterborough has had a separate Court of Quarter Sessions since the reign of Edward III, and in addition to the usual Commission of the Peace there are Commissions of Oyer and Terminer and of General Gaol Delivery.

NOTE.—The following are the particulars of the Cases stated under the Crown Cases Act, 1848 (with respect to questions of law reserved for consideration), which were considered by the Court of Criminal Appeal.

COURT.	NAME OF CASE.	OFFENCE.	DECISION OF COURT OF CRIMINAL APPEAL.
Glamorgan (Swansea) Assizes	Rex v. Sarah Jones	Procuration	Conviction affirmed.
Central Criminal Court	Rex v. Beatrice Levy	Accessory after the fact to the felony of Possession of Mould for making Counterfeit Coin.	" "

On the consideration of petitions for the exercise of His Majesty's mercy the following Cases were referred by the Secretary of State for hearing and determination by the Court of Criminal Appeal (Section 19 (a) of the Act) :—

COURT.	NAME OF CASE.	OFFENCE.	DECISION OF COURT OF CRIMINAL APPEAL.
Hereford City Sessions	Rex v. Alfred Bendon	Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871	Sentence of Police Supervision remitted.
Staffordshire Assizes	Rex v. William Joseph Tanner	Incest	Conviction quashed.

These four cases are not included in the figures given in the Table.

In addition there were two references by the Secretary of State under Section 19 (b) of the Criminal Appeal Act, 1907, for the opinion of the Court on points arising in cases, with a view to the determination of petitions.

In the case of an application for leave to appeal against the finding of a jury that the appellant was unfit to plead, the Court held that no appeal laid. To an application for leave to appeal against the finding of a jury after trial that appellant was insane, a reply was given to the same effect.

[a] This total is made up of 15,992 boys and 832 girls under 14 years of age, 12,977 male and 673 female young persons aged 14 and under 16, and 2,338 males and 165 females aged above 16. In addition to the persons included in this return 929 children and 2,341 young persons were dealt with by ordinary Courts of Summary Jurisdiction, because they were charged jointly with adults, or were supposed to be aged above 16.

[b] Columns 3, 5 and 6 include 56 cases of boys whipped with the consent of their parents and discharged.

COURTS OF SUMMARY JURISDICTION.

NOTES.

Tables XI, XII, and XIII.

(a.) These Tables include only offences tried summarily. All Indictable Offences where the Court does not actually assume the power to determine the case summarily are excluded. Further, these Tables include only cases where the proceedings are criminal—that is, lead if successful to a conviction. There are a large number of cases which are quasi-criminal in character, but where the procedure is by complaint, leading, not to a conviction, but to the making of an order. These are provided for in a separate Table—No. XIV.

(b.) The Tables show the number of persons prosecuted, not the number of offences. Where therefore any person is prosecuted at the same time for several offences one offence has to be selected for tabulation, and the rules followed are the same as in Tables I to V. (See note (b) page 30.)

(c.) The offences included under each of the titles of offences in Column 1 are stated in Appendix B on page 172.

Table XI.

(d.) Table XI corresponds to Tables I, III, and V, and (as regards length of sentences) to Tables II and IV.

(e.) Columns 4 to 6 include all persons dealt with under sections 1 and 2 of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1907, the entries being made as follows :—

Column 4.—Cases in which, although the charge is proved, the Court, without proceeding to conviction, makes an order dismissing the information or charge (section 1 (1) (i) of Act).

Column 5.—Similar cases, in which an order is made discharging the offender conditionally on his entering into a recognizance, with or without sureties, to be of good behaviour, and to appear for conviction and sentence when called upon (section 1 (1) (ii) of Act), but where no probation order is made.

Column 6.—Cases in which a probation order is made, i.e., in which the order for recognizances contains a condition placing the offender under supervision (section 2 of Act).

(f.) Column 7 "Committal to Industrial School," includes only those committals to Industrial Schools where an offence is charged—i.e., committals under Section 58 (2) and (3) of the Children Act, 1908, Section 12 of the Elementary Education Act, 1876, Section 5 (3) of the Employment of Children Act, 1903, and Articles 8 and 9 of the Order in Council of the 2nd April, 1909, relative to Day Industrial Schools. Other committals to Industrial Schools where the proceedings are not criminal appear in Table XIV and also in Table XLIV.

(g.) Column 8 includes committals to custody of relatives or other persons, made under section 58 (7) of the Children Act, 1908, in the cases of children charged with offences punishable with imprisonment, i.e., cases in which a committal to an industrial school could be made under section 58 (2) and (3) of the Children Act, 1908.

(h.) Columns 10 to 16, "Imprisonment," do not include the preliminary imprisonment in Inebriate Reformatory cases, nor terms of imprisonment in default of paying fine or of finding sureties.

(i.) Column 18, "Reformatory School," contains all cases of persons sentenced to Reformatory School detention, whether they are actually admitted to a reformatory or not. Details as to cases actually received in reformatories are given in Table XLIII.

(k.) Columns 20 and 24, "Fine," include all cases where a fine is imposed whether the fine is paid or not. The number of persons imprisoned in default of payment of fines is given in Table XXXV.

Table XII.

Table XIII.

(n.) This Table corresponds to Table VIII. The rule as to ages is the same. The first part gives the ages of all persons convicted summarily of indictable offences, and is exactly on the same basis as Table VIII. The second part, however, contains only persons apprehended and convicted : persons convicted on summons have to be excluded on account of the difficulty of ascertaining their ages.

PROBATION ORDERS.

XVII.—PROBATION ORDERS.—Offences of Persons released under Probation Orders, Age and Sex, and Number subsequently Sentenced.

XVIII.—PROBATION ORDERS.—Number of Persons released under Probation Orders in each Court or Police District, Age and Sex, and Number subsequently Sentenced.

(These Tables include all Probation Orders—those made by Assizes and Quarter Sessions and those made by Courts of Summary Jurisdiction.)

TABLE XVII.—PROBATION ORDERS.—Offences of Persons released under Probation Orders, Age and Sex, and Number subsequently Sentenced.

TABLE XXI.—PUBLIC PROSECUTIONS.—Number of Prosecutions undertaken by the Director of Public Prosecutions, and Results.

(a.) "Offences."—The titles of the indictable offences are the same as in Tables I to V; of non-indictable offences as in Table XI. The table includes all prosecutions completed within the year; cases pending at the end of the year are reserved for inclusion in next year's tables.

(b.) In Columns 2 to 6, "number of prosecutions undertaken," each case appears as one only, though several persons may be involved or several charges brought. In Columns 7 to 15 (number of persons prosecuted, &c.) the number of persons is given. Where the same person is prosecuted for several offences, one offence is selected for tabulation by the same rule as is followed in Tables I to V. In such cases, the number of charges not included in Columns 2 to 15 is given in Column 16.

POLICE RETURNS.

NOTES.

Table XXII.

(a.) Column 1, "Offences."—The titles of the offences are the same as in Tables I to V.

(b.) Column 2, "Number of Crimes known to police."—This column includes all crimes reported to the police or otherwise coming to their knowledge within the year whether committed by the same or different persons, and whether any apprehension takes place within the year or not.

(c.) If there is a committal or conviction within the year, the table shows the nature of the crime as judicially determined. Failing this, the charge which is named in the summons or warrant or on which the prisoner is arrested is taken as determining the crime. If there are no proceedings and no apprehension, the character of the crime is judged by the facts so far as known to the police.

(d.) In Columns 3 to 18 the number of persons proceeded against is given, not the number of crimes or charges. A person charged at the same time with several offences appears as one person only. In selecting the offence for tabulation the same principle is followed as in Tables I to V—the charge resulting in conviction or committal for trial has preference to the others ; and subject to this the more serious offence is selected. If there are two or more convictions, that for which the heavier sentence is inflicted is regarded as the more serious. These columns include only cases disposed of within the year. Cases pending at the end of the year are reserved for inclusion in the following year's table.

(e.) Columns 4 and 12, "Discharged," contain cases where the magistrate does not assume power to try the case summarily, but discharges the accused under Section 25 of the Indictable Offences Act, 1848.

(f.) Columns 5 and 13, "Tried Summarily and Acquitted," contain cases where, after the magistrate has decided to deal summarily with the case, the charge is dismissed or withdrawn.

(g.) The entries in columns 6 and 14 include the following cases :—

(i) All cases dealt with under sections 1 and 2 of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1907, i.e., cases where the charge is held to be proved, but the court, without convicting, made an order dismissing the charge, or an order for the offender to enter into recognizances, or a probation order.

(ii) Children under 12 charged with indictable offences committed to industrial schools under section 58 (2) and (3) of the Children Act, 1908.

(iii) Committals to custody of relatives and others made under section 58 (7) of the Children Act, 1908, in the cases of children charged with indictable offences, i.e., cases in which a committal to an industrial school could be made under section 58 (2) and (3) of the Children Act, 1908.

(h.) Columns 8 and 16, "Committed for Trial and Detained," include all persons committed to prison and places of detention to await trial, whether they are subsequently released on bail or not.

Table XXIII.

(i.) The titles of the offences are the same as in Table XI (B), and, as in that Table, only criminal proceedings are included.

(j.) Notes (c) and (d) above apply to this table.

(k.) Note (g) above applies to entries in columns 4 and 9 of this table, with the substitution of non-indictable offences for indictable offences.

Tables XXVI and XXVII.

(l.) Table XXVI gives the number of crimes in each Police District, i.e., the number of crimes of the nature of Indictable Offences reported within the year to the Police as committed within the Police District. Table XXVII is the corresponding Table for Non-Indictable Offences : but as in this case no figures of the number of offences committed or reported to the police can be given, the table gives the number of persons proceeded against. In other words Table XXVI gives the distribution in Police Districts of the figures in Column 2 of Table XXII, Table XXVII the distribution in Police Districts of the figures in Columns 2 and 7 of Table XXIII.
